Viyella Knitting Competition

Enormous Interest Displayed

HOW MARKS WERE DROPPED

THE Viyella Knitting Competition has been concluded, and there is no doubt that the innovation has proved to be extremely popular. Entrants are to be commended on the high standard of their work, a large percentage of the garments submitted being almost flawless in style, workmanship, and finish.

It is obvious that much interest is taken in knitting in the district, and the organisers of the competition feel that the following comments may be useful.

Competition knitting has to undergo a severe scrutiny and points are lost for the following details:—
Exaggerated styles. Unsuitable stitch for type of garment. Too large needles used, resulting in loose work. (A fairly common fault).
Crude blending of colours. Buttons and ribbons of ill-matching colour and inferior quality; the sewing on of these is important. Button holes unfinished; these are always more satisfactory if sewn round with buttonhole stitch. Joining wool in the middle of a row; joins should be made at the edges for contest work.

Badly sewn seams; grafting is easy at the shoulders, and side, and arm-hole seams can be made neat if all edges are firmly and carefully done;
crochet seams are quite good in heavy ply wool. Loose stitches in shoulder and neck line pick-ups.
Too large needles used for collar, cuffs and basque ribbing. Scorching or shining yarn in the ironing.
Pressing out ribbing; this should not be ironed out, nor should very fancy stitches be pressed flat, only lightly ironed over a thick cloth.

Finally, marks are lost for uneven ribbing, stocking and moss stitches.
These three types of stitch are the simplest to do yet reveal the quality of work more than anything else.
Their very simplicity is a pitfall.
The names of the prize winners appear on this page.

SPRAYED WITH SILVER

AFTER a season of flat table decorations, the pendulum has swung back again to the tall centrepiece of flowers—but with a difference.

In order not to obscure guests from each other's view, a tall slender silver pole supports a centrifugal "bouquet" of white roses, pumpkin grass, and lilies of the valley, in an original dinner-table decoration from a Baker-street salon.

The pole rises from a bed of white chrysanthemums which have been sprayed with silver paint, partly to lengthen their life and partly to give them the glittering "evening dress" effect of the Royal wedding month.

Badminton Frock

A MODERN tennis frock or a full box-pleated shorts is a suitable outfit for playing badminton.

At the risk of mortally offending badminton enthusiasts, the fact remains that it need not be as strenuous as squash and consequently suits a much larger number of women. Added to this it has distinct social attractions, since it can bring quite a number of people together and occupy several hours.

POWDER PUFFS

A COMPENDIUM of Beauty contains dozens of little powder puffs and many packets of face cleansing tissues—all enclosed in a dust-proof cellophane sachet tied up with ribbon. Beauty experts agree that it is wise to have a new puff every day, and this inexpensive outfit makes this easily possible.

The Compendium is a delightful addition, too, for the spare room,
and an equally charming present
for the woman traveller.

Exercises For Your Hands

OUR hands need exercise just as much as the other parts of our body, and the trouble is that they very seldom get the right exercise.

Give them the following exercises night and morning.

Began by relaxing the hands completely, hold them out in front of the body, and then bend the elbows slightly, allowing the hands to hang from the wrist.

Then wring the hands, allowing the fingers to fly about in any direction.

Next, hold the right hand up, palm facing you. Begin with the little finger, keeping all the fingers straight, bend the little finger until it touches the palm of the hand.

Straighten it up and bend the third finger, and so on until you get to the thumb. You will feel the muscles in the back of your hand stretch deliciously.

Next, open the hands close the fingers, and then open them and bend them as far back as possible.
Hold the hands up and finish up by playing imaginary five-finger exercises in the air.

Plenty Cold Cream

Do these exercises when you get up in the morning and again the last thing at night after you have massaged your hands with plenty of nourishing cold cream mixed with a little almond oil.

Remember to try and relax your hands when you go to sleep at night, and if you wear gloves, have them very loose so as to avoid any constriction.

Dancing And The Frocks

Slit Skirts A Great Help To Freedom

DANCING, from the woman's point of view, entails a good deal of thought on the clothes question.

Dance frocks with trains are more trouble than they are worth, unless the train is long enough to be picked up gracefully and not just bunched up anyhow.

The present fashion for slit skirts is a great help to freedom of movement, when frocks are of the slim fitting, "penet-silhouette" type. No woman can do herself justice as a dancer in a dress that is too tight round the ankles.

Any sense of restriction hampers dancing. That's why it is so important for women not to hold themselves stiffly (this is sometimes due to nervousness, or lack of practice), though one can go to the opposite extreme and look drooping and round-shouldered!

Many women who are otherwise excellent dancers make the mistake of trying to lead their partners, instead of following. This naturally results in missed steps, stum-blings, and "pulling" against the rhythm.

It is also rather hard on her dancing partner if a woman lets her hand lie too heavily on his right arm. The hand should rest there lightly and not become an increasing burden as the dance goes on.

There is no particular rule about the correct dancing "hold." The man's right hand should be placed just below the shoulder-blades, and not too high up, or his partner will find herself bent to an uncomfortable and ungraceful angle. It is simply a question of whatever suits each individual best.

PRANDY COLONY TITLIST

TECHNICAL KNOCK OUT IN SEVENTH

DEE NO MATCH FOR HARD-HITTING RIVAL

GERMAN'S SORRY DEBUT

A. B. PRANDY, of H.M.S. Kent, last night won the Featherweight Boxing championship of the Colony when he obtained a technical-knock-out decision over Stoker Dee of H.M.S. Phoenix in the seventh round of their scheduled 15-round title fight in the International programme at the Lee Theatre.

There was never much doubt as to which of the two boxers would win, for Prandy, with his advantage in reach, severely punished Dee from the opening stages and by the end of the sixth round had closed Dee's right eye in addition to cutting open his left cheek.

A. B. Appleby of H.M.S. Pandora proved too good for Max Brilka, the German welterweight, whose seconds threw in the towel before the end of the sixth round. The sailor battered Brilka with lefts and rights from all angles and culminated his exhibition with a shower of blows which sent the German boxer to the canvas.

Brilka did not land one good blow during the whole of the six rounds, and it was quite evident after the second round, that he had passed his best boxing days.

JUVENILE SPORTS MEETING

Successful Affair At Kowloon C.C.

PRIZES PRESENTED BY LADY SOUTHERN, O.B.E.

The Kowloon Cricket Club's annual juvenile sports, which were postponed from January 1, were held yesterday and proved to be as successful as ever. Before calling upon Lady Southern, O.B.E., to present the prizes, the Hon. Mr. R. E. Lindell, President of the Club said:

"I am not going to make a long speech, in the first place because it is rather cold, and in the second place, I know you would much rather get on with the distribution of the prizes. But I hope no one will grudge my saying first of all that many thanks are due to the helpers who made this afternoon a success, especially those helpers who are not members of the Club."

"The contributors to the sports funds have been fewer this year owing to the hard times, making it

The only other International bout was between A. B. Robinson of H.M.S. Medway and Seaman, 1st Class, Mel Hermes of the U.S.S. Mindanao, who fought a most amusing six rounds welterweight contest to a draw.

The American's sporting gestures to his English colleague evoked tremendous applause from the well filled house and the result was a fair indication of their display.

Prandy Too Fast

Dee who made his second appearance at the Lee Theatre last night within a fortnight, proved no match for Prandy, who secured his second win by the knock-out route in his second professional fight.

The opening rounds produced good boxing, but Prandy was much too fast for his opponent, and with the advantage of a longer reach punished Dee unmercifully, battering him into every corner of the ring.

Dee covered up well in the opening round, but thereafter made occasional swings at Prandy which, however, failed to land. Prandy, on the other hand, made full use of these openings to come in with his straight left which he followed up with right-hooks with devastating effect.

Dee In Dire Straits

In the third round Prandy was seen at his best and immediately the bell sounded he drove Dee into one of the corners where he landed blow after blow, eventually sending Dee to the boards for a count of 9, the bell saving him from further punishment.

Dee made a slight recovery in the fourth round, and although he took a deal of punishment, he managed to evade the worst of the blows with clever ring-craft.

In the fifth round Prandy took up the offensive from the bell and indications pointed to a knock-out, but the Stoker held out, taking terrific punishment which opened up a wound in his left cheek.

The Results

The full results were:— 16 Rounds for the Featherweight Championship of the Colony:— A. B. Prandy (H.M.S. Kent) beat Stoker Dee (H.M.S. Medway) by a T.K.O. in the seventh round.

10 Rounds Welterweight Contest:— A. B. Appleby (H.M.S. Pandora) beat Max Brilka (Germany) by a T.K.O. in the sixth round.

6 Rounds Welterweight Contest:— A. B. Robinson (H.M.S. Medway) drew with Seaman 1st Class, Mel Hermes (U.S.S. Mindanao).

6 Rounds Middleweight Contest:— A. B. Clarke (H.M.S. Medway) knocked out Opl. Fitzgerald (H.M.S. Kent) in the fourth round.

6 Rounds Welterweight Contest:— A. B. Wingrave (H.M.S. Medway) beat A. B. Fahey (H.M.S. Medway) on points.

6 Rounds Welterweight Contest:— A. B. Parker (H.M.S. Medway) beat P. O. Davis (H.M.S. Kent) on points.

CAER CLARK CUP CHAMPIONS LOSE TO THE "Y" LADIES

First Half Score Decides Issue

MISS DALZIEL AGAIN SHINES

The "Y" Ladies caused a sensation in the Caer Clark Cup tournament yesterday, when they defeated the champions, the Hong Kong Ladies, by two clear goals in their encounter at Soekunpo. The game was played at a very fast pace and both teams displayed good hockey.

The outstanding feature of the game was the excellent play of the "Y" Ladies' attack, Miss S. Dalziel adding plenty of zest and making an excellent leader, her two goals being well-deserved.

The Recreio were without the assistance of their custodian, Miss G. Rosa, who played such an inspiring game against the "Y" Ladies last week. Miss M. Basto, from left back, played between the sticks, but had very little to do. Miss Basto was substituted by Miss O. Botelho.

JONES INFUSES NEW SPIRIT INTO XI WHILE BLISS SHOWS INTERPORT FORM: EAST LANCS WELL BEATEN

CLUB'S LUCKY SENIOR SHIELD SOCCER WIN

Fusiliers Lose In Last Ten Minutes

WANKLYN FRACTURES ANKLE

Playing with a depleted team for the major part of the second half, the Fusiliers were very unlucky to lose to the Club by 5 goals to 3 in their First Round Senior Shield encounter on the Club Ground yesterday, after having shared six goals until the last 15 minutes.

The Club were rather unsettled during the opening stages of the game, and lost considerable ground, but their recovery was well staged and they lost nothing by it.

The Club forwards displayed an inclination to stray from their respective positions at the most inconvenient moments and many openings were lost. In addition, most of the forward play was featured by individual work.

Howe was outstandingly clever in the opportunity he displayed in attack. Both Fowler and Bickford brought the ball through on many occasions, and Bickford, especially, gave Howlands several hard and fast shots to deal with.

Hanging too far behind their partners, Drown and E. Strange lost quite a number of openings, but Strange, at least, atoned for this by being the only real helping forward in the attack.

Once again the strength of the Club in both attack and defence was to be found in the intermediate line. The accuracy of Pote-Hunt's distribution, despite the wandering of the forwards, was most noticeable, and both he and Duncan helped considerably in blocking the forward moves of the Fusiliers. Tavlin, after a mediocre first-half, improved and played a sound game towards the end.

S. Strange, who showed flashes of his true form and played steadily, carried the defence on his own through several very hard tussles. Gumble was shaky in his clearances, and Rodger was not at his best, although he made some clever saves.

Wanklyn Fractures Ankle

The Fusiliers were decidedly unfortunate. Holding quite a fair share of the play during the first half, they had the misfortune to lose Wanklyn after the interval. Wanklyn who had been playing a great game at back came into collision with Fowler and fractured his ankle.

Harrison worked overtime in his efforts to put the ball past Rodger, and in partnership with Dennis exhibited clever close-knit approach work which only just failed in its objective. Roberts had a "field-day" on his wing and tested Rodger with many excellent cross-drives.

Grindley was exceptionally good throughout, in the second half doing the work of two players, and by his efforts robbed the Bickford-wing of a great deal of its effectiveness. Kennaghan and Ellis gave good support, and though Kennaghan was a trifle unsteady under pressure, the whole defence played very well.

A bout of mid-field work followed the opening of the match and Pote-Hunt was well in evidence giving Strange the first attempt at goal. Strange's effort, however, went wide.

At the Club end Rodger cleared a high shot from Roberts, and again in possession, Roberts went through only to shoot hastily, the ball sailing over the bar.

Two Quick Goals

Fowler took the ball along his wing on a fast run, but his shot went over, and Bickford had very hard lines when his drive found the wrong side of the net.

By a great effort, Dennis connected with his head from Roberts' pass, but his efforts just grazed the post. The Club forwards, taking the ball down on the return, featured their only effective combined movement when Pote-Hunt started the work with a pass to Fowler. Fowler quickly centred to Drown who sent it through to Howe for the latter to score.

SAINTS PROVE NO MATCH FOR SOUTH CHINA

Player Sent Off And Another Cautioned

BRILLIANT CHINESE FORWARDS

South China "B" encountered little opposition in their Senior Shield game with the Saints yesterday at Caroline Hill, winning by 5 goals to 1.

The game was not brilliant, though very clean until the last five minutes when Dellar, the Saints' right-back, was sent off the field for rough play and Herridge was cautioned.

St. Joseph's could not settle down at all. They gave flashes of good football, but there was very little combination. The forward line started off very well, but weakened after some fifteen minutes' play. Ward, in the centre, was quite good, but Victor, on the extreme right, was very much off form — he was slow and his passes to the centre were misplaced and ill-timed.

Herridge Plays Well

Herridge played a good game, and so did Beatty — it would have been a better move to have kept these two together. Elms played his usual good game. During the second half he was changed over with Costa, but he was not quite so happy at outside left — on two occasions he passed the ball through to the outside-left position, evidently forgetting that he himself filled that position.

Leonard played a good game, his passes were well-judged, but as he had a failing to pass to the right they were of little use. Souza and Dellar set up a fine defence, but Wong in goal was weak. He fumbled and mis-kicked, and all five of the goals should not have been given him.

The Chinese, on the other hand, were a good all-round team, perfect understanding existing between them. The pride of the team was the forward line. A perfect quintette, they repeatedly stormed through the Saints' defence. Yeung Shui Yick played a great game at outside-right; he was fast and his control perfect, whilst Tsang King Koo, in the centre, was always on the qui vive and took every chance. Cheung Shuk Kau, at inside-left, was another almost perfect player. In a perfect forward line.

Wong Wa Kai had not much work to do in goal, but he saved some fine shots and cleared well. Cheung Chi Ying and Yui Hing Yuen were safe backs and gave Ward and his forwards little chance of scoring.

South China's Early Score South China showed their colour in the first minute of the game, Li Shik Yau receiving the ball to pass inside for Tsang King Koo to net the first goal of the game. Leonard

SAINTS WELL TROUNCED BY SOUTH CHINA

SANDFORD HAS FIVE AGAINST CLUB

MEDICALS NEARLY SURPRISE FUSILIERS

Kowloon have at last felt the benefit of their Borderer recruits. Yesterday Jones infused a new fighting spirit into the side and the remarkable comeback to form resulted in the defeat of the vastly improved East Lanes combination in the Senior Shield.

South China "B" touched their best form to rout the Saints, who lost Dellar in the closing stages through the referee's orders, while the Club were fortunate to beat ten Fusiliers (Wanklyn fractured his ankle) the last 15 minutes deciding the match.

The Junior Shield results were not without surprises. The Ordnance should have beaten South China, but hasty shooting was responsible for innumerable opportunities going begging. The Medicals nearly caused a sensation by beating the Fusiliers, only a last-minute equaliser enabling the better-trained R.W.F. team to win during extra time.

Sandford ran riot against the Club, scoring five of the East Lanes' seven goals.

KOWLOON WIN OVER LANCS WAS WELL MERITED

BLISS GIVES GREAT DISPLAY

JONES INFUSES NEW LIFE INTO WINNERS

After a long spell of defeats, Kowloon rose to the occasion yesterday afternoon, and gained a well-deserved victory over the East Lanes in their Senior Shield encounter, winning by the odd goal in five.

The presence of "Hooker" Jones in the forward line seemed to inspire the whole team, and, with Morrison back to his old form, every man put his whole heart into the game, and a fast, clean, and interesting game was witnessed by the Kowloon and Lanes supporters.

The Kowloon defence was very sound. Morrison was fast and deadly in his tackles, and his timely clearances kept the ball out of the danger zone on many occasions. Eastman was a worthy partner, and worked tirelessly throughout. Boyes showed splendid anticipation, and was responsible for many fine saves.

Bliss Exceels Bliss was the "star" of the intermediate line, in fact, he was the best half-back on the field. Always in the right place, whether defending or attacking, he tackled resolutely and sent the forwards away with accurate and well-judged passes. He was more than a match for Lawton.

Davies and Gilchrist worked hard, and sent their wingmen away with many a deft pass. Jones seemed to infuse new life into the forwards, and the result was an efficient and combined line, threatening danger whenever in possession. Jones tripped the defence time and again, and gave Knox many an opening.

Knox was inclined to be on the slow side, and centred far too hard, but on the whole worked well with Jones. V. Whites, on the other wing, positioned himself well, and sent in some good passes, receiving splendid support from Elliott. G. White was a good leader, and gave the Lanes defence many anxious moments in the first half, when he went very close to scoring.

Team-Work Lacking The East Lanes did not combine as a team. Individually, the players are good, but they still seem to break down in front of goal.

NAVY WIN RUGBY

DISPLAY ALL ROUND SUPERIORITY OVER CLUB TEAM

Forbes And Benson Excel In Attack

McLELLAN'S GOOD KICKING

Displaying an all round superiority, particularly among the three-quarters, the Navy secured a brilliant rugby win over the Club in their Triangular Rugby Tournament return fixture on the Club ground yesterday, winning by a goal and two tries (11 points), to a goal and a penalty goal (8 points).

The game was witnessed by a very large crowd including His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief, Admiral Sir Frederick Charles Dreyer, His Excellency the General Officer Commanding the Troops, Major-General O. C. Borrett, Commodore Frank Elliott, R.N., and Captain Errol Manners, R.N.

Faulty handling and running among the Club backs accounted for the loss of several scoring opportunities, while on the other hand, the Navy backs were splendidly backed up, which was mainly responsible for their second-half scores.

Touch-Kicking First Half

The first half was featured by touch-kicking, there being very few open movements, both packs being seen in several promising rushes, which were, however, nullified by poor finishing.

The outstanding features of the game was the magnificent defence of the Navy, the splendid work of Forbes, the Navy scrum-half who sent out some amazing passes, and Benson's dazzling runs which left the Club defence spread-eagled.

The Club forwards were good individually, but were poor as a pack, the hooping being very weak and the ball seldom came to light in the first half, if it did at all.

Brilliant Navy Forwards

Hammott, Kelburne, and Whitfield were the pick of the Navy forwards, and played magnificently throughout. The other forwards gave splendid support in the tight and loose scrums, but were seldom seen bunched in the loose dribbles.

LIFE INSURANCE— an Impregnable Wall

THE world has witnessed some sad economic experiences in recent years. Financial safeguards which were thought strong and trustworthy have proven weak and flimsy.

You owe it to your dependents to build a substantial reserve against adversity; to protect them against future financial hazard. Millions of people live serenely behind the security that life insurance offers, that impregnable wall of defence against economic disaster.

You can create, at age 30, a ten thousand dollar estate, under our Guaranteed Maximum Protection Policy, for $220.00 yearly. In lieu of a lump sum payment, the proceeds will be paid in regular monthly instalments, if desired.

CRAIGENGOWER WIN BY 4 WICKETS

LEE ALSO BATS WELL

Following the dismissal of Major Bonavia at 30, "Tinker" Lee (7 for 81) caused a startling Army collapse, the remaining eight batsmen aggregating 45 runs for a total of 75. Craigengower, however, lost six wickets before the winning hit was made in their senior league game at the Valley yesterday.

Lee's first nine overs produced five maidens, 11 runs, and three wickets. He followed up his bowling feat by hitting six boundaries in his 40, scored out of 83.

OWEN HUGHES TAKE FOUR CATCHES

PEARCE SCORES 32 OUT OF 41

Good bowling by G. R. M. Ricketts (5 for 50) and T. A. Pearce (5 for 38) resulted in the Hong Kong Cricket Club, senior league cricket champions beating the Club de Recreio, newcomers to the league, by 4 wickets at King's Park yesterday.

A feature of the match was the fielding of Harry Owen Hughes, who took four good catches. Also Pearce followed up his bowling feat by scoring 32 out of 41, hitting five boundaries.

PERSONALITIES OF THE SAAR

"That Mr. Knox" Does Not Win Popularity

Dr. Rochling, Strong Man Of The Deutsche Front

(By Claude Luke)

BUT I simply must decline to read another line of the French and the Germans and the Saar."

NATHANIAL GUBBINS.

I appreciate your point of view, Mr. Gubbins, but now that British troops are being sent to the Saar, that heavily-populated district becomes still more important.

And the people in it.

To-day, a handful of men and at least one woman are being rapidly borne along, if not to greatness, to world prominence by a flood of events vastly greater than themselves. History simmers in the cauldron of this borderland State and the human figures round the flames tend to assume a stature and significance which possibly a colder, sterner light might not reveal.

Mr. Geoffrey Knox, the Irish-Scottish President of the Government Commission—"That Mister Knox," as the Nazis call him, has probably the least enviable job in the world to-day. Loved by nobody, he lives a solitary life, relieved only by high pressure work and occasional trips in his car, which he drives with a sort of cold fury. In Saarbrücken recently I met a German lad of about fourteen who could speak but three words of English. They were: "that—Knox." And he uttered them repeatedly, basking in the delighted grin of his elders.

French Bias Suggestion

The unpopularity of Mr. Knox exceeds even that of M. Morice, the French member of the Governing Commission, for the Nazis say that they can understand a Frenchman siding with France over the Saar question, but why an Englishman? The answer is that Knox sides with nobody and therefore the Nazis find in his most innocent acts a suggestion of French bias.

The accuse him of possessing a schoolmasterish mind; of making a fetish of verbiage (surely—from a Nazi—exquisite irony); of holding aloof from Saar society; of avoiding any contact with the people of whom he is principal trustee. They compare him unfavourably with Mr. Stephens, a Canadian president of former years, a sociable and cheery soul whose backslapping attitude towards the ordinary Saarlander has kept his memory green throughout the territory. They forget that the amiable Mr. Stephens ruled in the days when the Plebschite was a remote event. Mr. Knox has seen the shadow of the Vote creep closer week by week throughout his term of office, and with so many conflicting interests, jealousies and hates, within his pocket kingdom he did the only thing possible in choosing isolation.

Always Pounded On

Even so, he does not escape accusations of partiality. If he drives over the French border to a favourite inn for a taste of French cooking, the Saar hums with rumours of his consultations with the French military. When, recently, it was discovered that the Deutsche Front, by booking every hall in Saarbrücken, had effectively prevented the Opposition Front from holding meetings, Mr. Knox stepped in and insisted that certain halls on certain nights should be let to the Opposition. What greater proof could be required, cried the Nazis, of his partiality for the Communists.

Dr. Hermann Rochling and Herr Jakob Pirro. Pirro is the young man who on March 1 this year became leader of the Deutsche Front. Before that he was a municipal worker. He looks more the municipal worker than the Nazi leader. A firm mouth and a warm gleam in the eyes alone retrieve an otherwise unimpressive countenance. He works all day in a house on the outskirts of Saarbrücken, a house converted into severely plain offices that still bear traces of the red seals on the doors, legacies of the occasion when Mr. Knox's men raided and closed it for a time. Here Pirro plans, organises and disciplines the 480,000 Saarlanders whom he claims to be members of the Deutsche Front.

Dr. Rochling, in the millionaire owner of the largest metallurgical works in the Saar territory. Rochling is the strong man of the Saar. A great patriot, a typical German, head of a family business 200 years old, he is a worthy foe for Knox's steel. He is short, with a massive square head and a stern face that bears two livid sword scars running from the corner of his mouth; he looks as though some of the iron and steel of his giant factories is mingled with his blood.

Most Active Member

When I dined with him recently he proudly showed me his membership card of the Deutsche Front. They say he has subscribed a million francs to the funds. However that may be, he is certainly one of its most active members with great power and influence throughout the territory. If the Saar returns to Germany, Dr. Rochling will be ripe for high appointments under Hitler and his authority in the Saar will be complete.

His victory, if it comes, will mark the swift eclipse of two men who are at present the spearheads of the anti-Nazi movement. Max Braun, leader of the Radical Socialists, and Fritz Pfordt, Communist leader. The Socialists and Communists have joined forces to compose a common front against the handing over of the Saar to Hitlerism, though they insist that they are good Germans and passionately desire reunion with the Fatherland under democratic government.

I have seldom seen stranger bedfellows in any political movement. Braun is a Rhinelander, not entitled to vote in the Plebschite. Pfordt is a young Saarlander. Braun is an intellectual, keen, lucid, astute and with a lively sense of humour. They say he buys his clothes from a London tailor. Pfordt is more stolid, looks like a prize-fighter, bull-shouldered, awkward with his hands, cautious with his smiles. Though a good speaker, he is not a patch on Braun whose friends believe to have more fire than Hitler; others dismiss him as a theatrical pedagogue.

Braun's Boast

Both Braun and Pfordt live on a volcano of Nazi reprisals. I met them both in Braun's closely-guarded office, approached through long stone corridors and past several guarded doors. Braun told

WORLD'S RADIO MECCA

EXPERTS FLOCK TO R.C.A. BUILDING

LARGEST BROADCASTING SYSTEM

During the first year of its existence, the Radio City headquarters of the National Broadcasting Company at New York City has become a mecca for radio engineers from all parts of the world. From countries in every continent, experts have flocked to the RCA Building to examine the world's most modern and most efficient broadcasting plant.

Nineteen countries, so far, have sent delegations, committees or lone investigators to find out how Radio City was built, how it operates its split-second schedule, how the coast-to-coast networks are "fed," their constant diet of entertainment and information. The nations represented to date are:

Argentina, Australia, Austria, Brazil, Canada, China, Czechoslovakia, England, France, Germany, Holland, Italy, Japan, New Zealand, Poland, Russia, Siam, South Africa and Sweden.

As a result, Mr. O. B. Hanson, chief engineer of N.B.C., has been kept busy acting as host and guide, while directing the technical operation of the world's largest broadcasting system.

According to Hanson, the things which interest foreign engineers most are the acoustical control system, developed and perfected by N.B.C. engineers; the multiple switching system to shift programmes instantaneously from one place to another, and the system of pre-setting network hook-ups to await the more push of a button.

Present visitors at Radio City from across the ocean are members of a committee from the British Broadcasting Corporation, including Lord Selkirk, P.C., K.B.E.; N. Ashbridge, chief engineer of the B.B.C.; F. W. Phillips, assistant secretary of the British Post Office, and Col. A. S. Angwin, assistant chief engineer.

me that in Germany there are large posters offering 3000 marks to anyone who will bring him over the border.

Other Saar personalities include Dr. Neikes, mayor of Saarbrücken, Peter Kiefer, trade union leader who speaks for 73,000 Saar workers, and Dr. Walther Cartellieri, director of the Saar Economic Archives, a keen, intelligent person with a mind as neat and precise as his clothes, who almost persuades you that reunion with Germany must be to the economic advantage of the Saar.

The only woman official in the Saar hierarchy I have been able to discover is the American, Miss Wambaugh, a member of the Plebiscite Commission. She has the peculiar distinction of being a world authority on plebiscites. It is said that she has officiated in no fewer than nineteen. (General Knowledge test: give names and dates of nineteen plebiscites). One man said to her: "I understand you are the only woman expert on plebiscites in the world."

Miss Wambaugh answered: "One word too many. I am the only expert on plebiscites in the world."

Dear Sir,
I just feel that I must write and tell you how glad I am to say that I have been cured of a cold and "Flu." I commenced taking "ASPRO" and took capsules on sugar. I managed to get to a chemist for some medicine. He asked me what I had been taking. I told him. He then told me not to take much capsules, but to INHALE as much as I liked. But, said he, had it not been for "ASPRO" you would not be in this shop to-day, but in bed! He was a great believer in "ASPRO." Then two weeks ago I caught another BAD COLD, but by taking "ASPRO" three times a day, I managed to "beat" the cold and get well.

"The Chinese Renaissance" "Father" Expounds Birth Of National Language

Dr. Hu Shih Lectures At The University

Dr. Hu Shih, known as the "Father of the Chinese Renaissance," and Dean of the College of Liberal Arts of the National University of Peking, will receive the honorary degree of LL.D. from the University of Hong Kong at its graduation exercises to-morrow. Since his arrival here on Friday by the s.s. President Harrison from Shanghai, the famous Chinese educationalist, has been enthusiastically welcomed by his fellow-countrymen, as well as by leading European residents of the Colony.

Although he has travelled the world over, this is the first occasion on which he has set foot in Southern China and, in the course of an interview with the Sunday Herald, he said that he was delighted with the scenery and climate of Hong Kong.

Dr. Hu, who is the author of an "Outline of Chinese Philosophy," and founder of the "literary revolution" movement and the first to write poetry in the spoken language—the pei-hua of the people—hopes that, within 30 or 40 years, the masses of the Chinese people, young and old, will be able to read and write under the method of the Popular Educational Movement.

PRIMARY SCHOOLS NEEDED

The noted scholar said that the most important thing facing the Chinese now is the establishment of more primary schools everywhere. To accomplish the realization of this object, Dr. Hu said that finance and teachers are needed more than anything else.

Dr. Hu, who is a pupil of Dr. John Dewey, and a graduate of Cornell and Columbia Universities, where he received his B.A. and Ph.D. degrees respectively, was born in Southern Anhui in 1891. He comes of a scholarly family, his father having been a great geographer and having at one time held an official post in Formosa.

He is internationally known for his philosophy and writings. In 1932 he was elected corresponding member of the Prussian Academy of Learning. Last year he was appointed chief Chinese delegate to the Institute of Pacific Relations Conference, and at the same time, as Haskell lecturer, he toured the United States and Canada.

GREAT TRANSLATOR

He holds many important cultural and educational posts in China to-day. He is the author of many volumes of poetry, philosophy, history and essays, and has introduced many famous European writers to the Chinese reading public through his translations.

His Haskell lectures, delivered at the University of Chicago in July last, have been published under the title of "The Chinese Renaissance," from which the lecture on this subject which he delivered at the Hong Kong University on Friday evening was taken. This admirable little volume was published by the University of Chicago Press, at U.S.$1.50.

LECTURE EXTRACTS

The following are extracts from his lecture last Friday evening:

"The Renaissance was the name given by a group of Peking University students to a monthly magazine which they first published in 1918. They were mature students, well trained in the old cultural tradition of the country, and they readily recognised in the new movement then led by some of their professors a striking similarity to the Renaissance in Europe. Three prominent features in the movement reminded them of the European Renaissance. First, it was a conscious movement to promote a new literature, in the living language of the people, to take the place of the classical literature of old. Second, it was a movement of conscious protest against many of the ideas and institutions in the traditional culture, and of conscious emancipation of the individual man and woman from the bondage of the forces of tradition. It was a movement of reason versus tradition, freedom versus authority, and glorification of life and human values versus their suppression.

And lastly, strangely enough, this new movement was led by men who knew their cultural heritage and tried to study it with the new methodology of modern historical criticism and research. In that sense it was also a humanist movement. In all these directions the new movement, which began in 1917 and which was sometimes called the 'New Culture Movement,' the 'New Thought' movement, or the 'New Tide,' was capturing the imagination and sympathy of the youth of the nation as something which promised and pointed to the new birth of an old people and old civilisation."

RECOGNITION ABSENT

Continuing his lecture, Dr. Hu said that there were many periods in history of the Chinese Renaissance, but each of these movements suffered from one common defect, the "absence of a conscious recognition of their historical mission."

"The Renaissance movement of the last two decades differs from all the early movements in being a fully conscious and studied movement. Its leaders know what they want, and they know what they must destroy in order to achieve what they want. They want a new language, a new literature, a new outlook in life and society, and a new scholarship. They want a new language, not only as an effective instrument of popular education, but also as the effective medium for the development of the literature of a new China. They want a literature that will be written in the living tongue of a living people and will be capable of expressing the real feelings, thoughts, inspirations, and aspirations of a growing nation. They want to infuse into the people a new outlook on life which shall free them from the shackles of tradition and make them feel at home in the new world and its new civilisation. They want a new scholarship which shall not only enable them to understand intelligently the cultural heritage of the past, but also prepare them for active participation in the work of research in the modern sciences. This, as I understand it, is the mission of the Chinese Renaissance."

U.S. PROVIDES SOLUTION

When the problem came up 30 years ago, he said, as to how China could use the classical language as the medium for modern-day expression, many devices were suggested.

Dr. Hu continued: "The solution of this problem came from the dormitories in the American universities. In the year 1915 a series of trivial incidents led some Chinese students in Cornell University to take up the question of reforming the Chinese language. My classmate, Mr. Chao Yuen-ren, and I prepared a series of articles on this question. He took the position that it was possible to alphabetise the Chinese language; and he proposed certain details of procedure and answered all possible arguments against alphabetisation. I took the position that, while an alphabetised language might be the ultimate goal, it was necessary to consider intermediate steps to make the ideographical characters more teachable in the elementary schools, and I also proposed certain methods of reform. These articles were read in English and published in the Chinese Students' Monthly.

"These articles, said the speaker, attracted no comment and were soon forgotten. But other disputes arose among students in the United States. The question of the day was: 'In what language shall the New China produce its future literature?' Dr. Hu's proposal was the pei-hua, the 'vulgar tongue' of the common people, 'the language which, in the last 500 years, had produced the numerous novels read and loved by the people.'"

THEORY OPPOSED

"With the exception of a Chinese girl student in Yassar College, all my literary friends in the American universities were opposed to this outrageous theory of mine. They had to admit that the spoken tongue of the people was good enough for the popular novels, for that had been clearly demonstrated by the great novels of the sixteenth, Dr. Hu Shih and Sir William Hornell, Vice-Chancellor of the Hong Kong University, photographed outside the University yesterday. (King's Studio).

seventeenth and eighteenth centuries. But they all maintained that the vulgar language of the people, which had never been polished and refined by the great writers and poets of the nation, could not be used as the medium of poetry. I defended my position by pointing out that, throughout the history of Chinese poetry, all the best remembered verses of the great poets were written in the simplest language, which, if not strictly the living speech of the time. In spite of the copious examples I cited to prove my thesis, my friends were not convinced, for it must be admitted that the poets of the past never consciously wrote in the plain language of the people; they only slipped into it unwittingly and only on rare occasions of true poetic inspiration. The greatest bulk of Chinese poetry was composed in the plain language of the people; they only slipped into it unwittingly and only on rare occasions of true poetic inspiration. The greatest bulk of Chinese poetry was composed in strictly conservative, highly polished, literary diction."

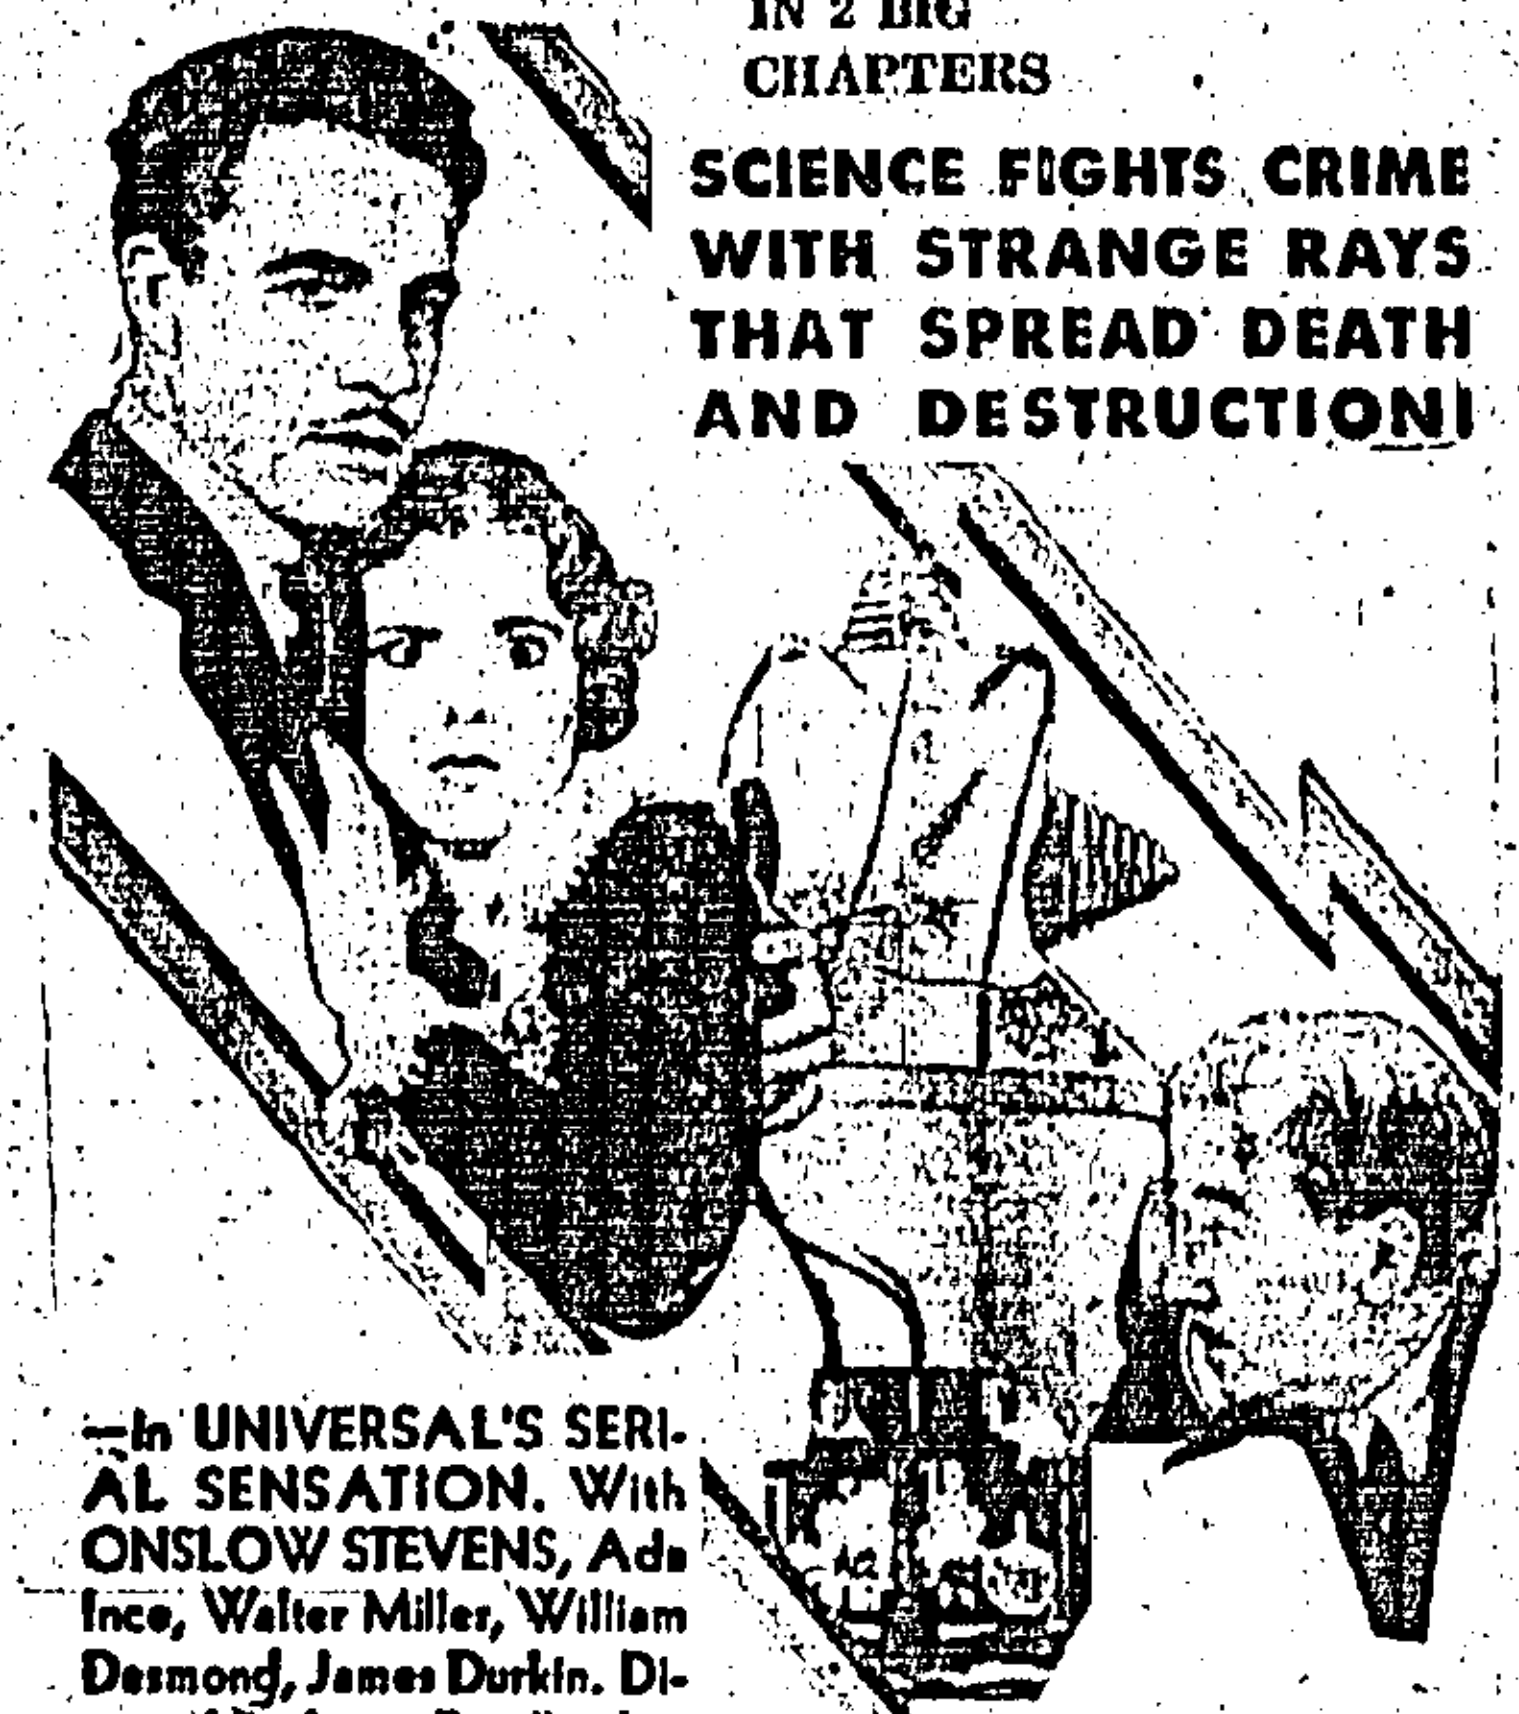

After more years of study of Chinese literature and history, Dr. Hu came to the conclusion that the pei-hua was the only solution to (Continued on Page 15.)

The Hong Kong Sunday Herald.

HONG KONG, SUNDAY, JANUARY 6, 1935.

Dr. Hu And Dr. Eddy

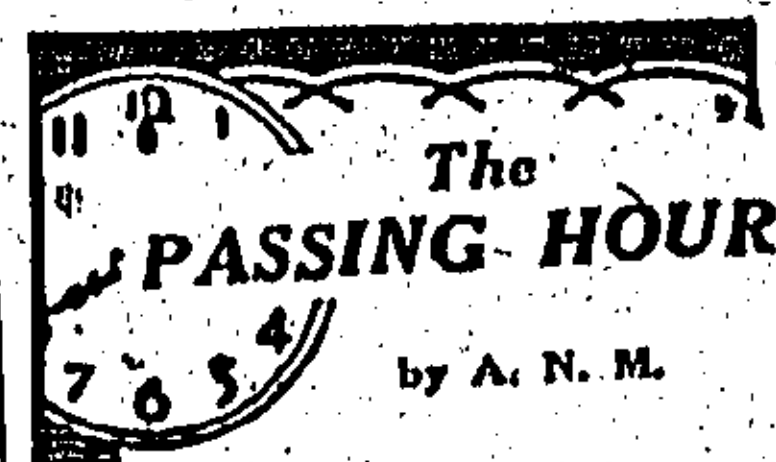

HONG KONG has started the year well by being brought at the very beginning into touch with the movements that are the yeast fermenting in the contemporary world by that personal contact and speech from man to man which is after all so much more vivid and suggestive than the reproductions made possible by the new inventions, wonderful as they are. The digging around the foundations of civilisation to see which of them are sound has gone too far and too deep to be dealt with by any other method than our time-honoured English plan of open enquiry and discussion.

It is only a few weeks since we referred to Dr. Hu Shih's Haskell Lectures in Comparative Religion, delivered in Chicago. The attitude of mind therein revealed indicates why our visitor has been to so large a degree in control of the rudder that has guided the ship of the Chinese Renaissance. That movement is only another proof that ideas are the most explosive things in the world, and that, like love, they laugh at locksmiths. Sooner or later Western thought had to have its effect on Chinese civilisation; and the impact could hardly fail to cause confusion. It would be a great mistake to suppose that any wise innovator or teacher would wish to disregard the ancient and well-knit system that is still the great inspirer of that reverence for the best things in art and life which the Romans called "pietas" and which is what has held Chinese society together for so many centuries. It would not be possible anyhow; and if possible would not have good results. The task of the reformers is much more delicate. It is by adaptation, by addition here and omission there to try to evolve a new philosophy of life with its appropriate form of action which shall admit what is useful in the new without losing the indispensable framework of the old. Dr. Hu Shih is an accepted leader in the work; and is so closely in touch with the practical realities of Chinese problems of the day that his judgment of method and of the suitable moment for action is exceptionally valuable. It is fortunate for us that we have in Tao Fong Shan an Institution which is capable of making some useful contributions from the European outlook.

Dr. Sherwood Eddy is an apostle of the Christian Youth movement who looks with jealous eyes on the enthusiasm which is admitted by all the best observers to have been evoked by Communism. His forcible delivery and practiced skill in handling a meeting made what he had to say about the Russian of to-day very convincing; for he expressed that mixture of admiration of energy and sympathy with many of the ideals of the younger men, combined with shrinking from the ruthless methods employed, which is what one gathers from perusal of the dozens of books poured forth to be what most of us would derive from a personal tour. One thought that suggested itself as perhaps not emphasised enough in these books is that an economic system is not an abstract thing like a proposition in Euclid, but a growth of national temperament. It may be that out of the worship for Karl Marx and Lenin a system of society may be evolved which will suit Russia very well; but that will not necessarily be any proof that it would suit Englishmen. To us the economic side of life is secondary to the life that we can achieve by its means, which is often an idiosyncrasy of the individual or of a small minority. A hardshell system immediately unites all the minorities in opposition; in fact the very enforcement of an orthodoxy is quite enough to condemn it by arousing antagonism. Much ridicule was poured on the conscientious anti-vaccinators, and the recognition of their right to exemption from vaccination was condemned by all the Doctors as feeble sentimentality; but the concession, by taking away a grievance, killed the rapidly growing movement.

No such argument should be allowed to weaken the growing sensitiveness to the injustices involved in the way that things are managed at present, and these injustices are not adequately dealt with by charity. Individualism ignores the fact that while the individual may take better advantage of his opportunities than his neighbours, the opportunities themselves are the creation of the law which is established by the community he lives in. There is an immense field for the legislator in so amending the law that the opportunities offered shall no longer and to so large a degree be opportunities for exploiting a man's neighbours rather than for earning a fair reward for services. Dr. Eddy tactfully referred only to the "Robber Barons" of his own country; but his audience could easily supply instances from their own.

People will cease to talk so much about war when they get an equally enthralling campaign for justice.

THE BIRTHDAY HONOURS.

AS there are no two opinions about the appropriateness of the appointment to the Order of the British Empire of Lady Southorn, Lt.-Col. (Dr.) Black, and Mr. J. L. MacPherson, there is nothing left to be done but to offer our hearty congratulations. No doubt we should be able to do the same in respect of the various recognitions conferred on residents in other parts of the Empire if we had the same personal acquaintance with the recipients, but looking up "Who's Who?" is a dull occupation. The fact that many of the names in the list are not widely known is not so much a reflection on their claims as on the very plain fact that the world knows little of its hardest workers. The present Prime Minister when he was a younger man used to indict the system of Royal conferment of honours as a "deception and a fraud." His argument was that it was a survival of feudalism, and that feudalism was out of date. When the responsibility for recommendations devolved upon him he acted on his own principles in the spirit if not the letter by taking exceptional pains in the selection of the names, and brought a welcome exercise of imagination to the task, which had for long become something of a formality when not merely relegated to the party whips.

PATRONAGE

IN the old days of genuine feudalism the number of peers was very limited. The duties involved were not to every man's liking, nor within every man's ability, for they involved the raising of levies and leading them in the King's wars. At one time, at the end of the Wars of the Roses, it would have been comparatively easy to abolish the feudal hierarchy; for the whole House of Peers could not muster forty men. Henry VII chose to leave the institution but by ever bigger fees made it impossible to continue to support the old levies. Relieved of military duties the heads of the great families took up politics, and for a long time England was really governed by a small oligarchy, the tradition of which lingers on still. Proud of the power to confer honours, Mr. Gladstone was too proud to accept any. D'Israeli laid down the maxim that any man that had twenty thousand pounds a year had a right to peerage; but he did not act consistently on his own principle. Mr. Lloyd George's sale of peerages in return for subscriptions to a party fund was too cynical for popular sentiment, and both the policy and the fund did him a great deal of harm. For some years cynicism has been out of fashion, and though all sorts of activities have, quite rightly, been recognised, it is safe to say no name has appeared in the list that has not conferred distinction as well as received it.

PROFESSOR MACKAIL

THE gift of the coveted Order of Merit on Professor Mackail is another example of the touch of imagination already referred to, for no one could more aptly typify the old culture which is so rapidly being superseded. Even those of the younger generation who are being brought up on Latin and Greek as fundamentals are unlikely to be as familiar with his name as their

FORTUNES FROM AIR INDUSTRY

NEW BUSINESSES RISE FROM DEAD TRADES

AVIATION BRINGS BENEFIT TO MANY THOUSANDS

(By William Courtenay)

AMONG the new industries which engines that would only function have risen in Great Britain on at every high revolution, and kept the ashes of dead trades is aviation. Aeroplanes and their accessories employ thousands. This new multiple industry started early in the century, but it was not until 1909 that aircraft firms were founded for the single purpose of building aeroplanes. Up to then the pioneers had been building experimental machines, which they flew themselves. Then, in 1909, the firm of Handley Page was formed. After the War of Havillands started. The latter have now sold over 1000 aeroplanes since the war, including over 8000 of those ubiquitous Gipsy Moths that have flown their way into all parts and markets of the world. These represent a turnover of more than £500,000, while each of the Handley Page air liners built for Imperial Airways cost over £30,000.

Romance Of Cirrus Engine

In the construction of machines the industry has had a relatively placid history. Plenty of people have made money, but fortune on a Woolworth scale has been lacking. That is also true of engine construction, which has led to prosperity but not to millions. Yet in this branch of the industry there is one romance. It is tied up with the name of Major Halford. For he invented the engine which made the light airplane possible.

Over 10 years ago the Air Ministry was dry-nursing by means of competitions at Lympne the single-seater light aeroplane, and after that the two-seater. But at first progress was not so good. They flew, but with excessively delicate

Sai Kung

On Christmas Eve we were fortunate enough to obtain a "lift" in a police-launch to Sai Kung which provided an opportunity for seeing a few marine birds. Over Junk Bay was noticed a number of seagulls, mostly in immature plumage. These were either the Yellow-legged or the Pink-legged Herring Gull; adult plumage is not assumed till the third year.

In Port Shelter a number of ducks was seen, the largest flock contained between forty and fifty birds. All the ducks seen appeared to be the same species but it was not identified—a large duck, dark in colour, with a prominent white or whitish wing patch.

Whilst anchored off Sai Kung the most interesting bird of the day was watched for some considerable time. It was observed first in flight but most of the time it spent either on the water or under it. It dived and swam under water a considerable distance reappearing after 20 seconds or half a minute almost invariably with a fish in its beak, which it promptly swallowed. The bird was a large one with a long thin neck held vertically (whilst the bird rested on the water) and a narrow straight bill. A patch of brownish yellow feathers was noticed at the side of the head, the lower part of the throat was whitish, the back and back of neck being a greyish brown and the lower parts were white. Only one bird seems to fit this meagre description and that is the Great Crested Grebe, Podiceps cristatus cristatus (L.). The characteristic ruff of this species disappears in the autumn. Vaughan and Jones have recorded this bird as a winter visitor to the Colony but this is the first occasion on which we have seen this interesting bird here.

The other rare bird seen was a South-East China Jungle-Crow sometimes called the Oriental Raven though it is not a true Raven being a much smaller bird. This species is a little larger than the common Collared Crow and can be distinguished from it by the absence of the white collar the plumage being glossy black throughout. Whilst we were at Sai Kung Police Station a solitary bird of this species flew overhead in an inland direction.

Other birds noticed were two Green Sandpipers or Snippets, a Reef Heron and a Cormorant.

FULTON DISASTER

(To the Editor, "Sunday Herald")

Sir,—I noticed in your issue of December 30, under the heading of events that happened during 1934, that the Officers and Crew of the ill-fated U.S. Gunboat "Fulton" were saved by H.M.S. "Wahart". May I point out that the ship that took the initiative was not mentioned, and that H.M.S. "Wahart" only assisted in the rescue work already commenced by the Butterfield & Swire steamer "Tainan".

APPRECIATION OF HOTEL FARE

(To the Editor, the "Sunday Herald.")

Sir,—I was very surprised to see the Management of The Hong Kong and Shanghai Hotels Ltd. criticised in the "Local Press" in connection with the "seasonal functions" held recently.

The work attached to these functions must be a great strain to both the Management and Staff, especially when attendance (as on this recent occasion) must have broken all past records and I am sure I am voicing the sentiments of practically all who were present at these functions when I offer congratulations to the Management and Staff on the excellent manner in which these functions were conducted—food—culinary—service—everything was excellent and thoroughly enjoyed by practically all present.

Speaking generally, kicks are administered rather freely, therefore it is only right that credit should be given when honestly due.

Wallen and Company, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Johannessen of Bergen, Norway.

The marriage was later solemnised in more colourful surroundings at the Tao Fong Shan Christian Institute, Shatin, the Rev. Dr. K. L. Reithel officiating, and Mr. K. Knudsen performing the duties of best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held on the first floor of the Peninsula Hotel, which was thronged with the many friends of the bride and bridegroom who joined in wishing the young couple every happiness.

Owing to unforeseen circumstances the host, Mr. H. J. Wallen, was unable to be present, and in his absence Dr. Reithel welcomed the guests on his behalf.

Mr. Gordon Mackie in toasting the bride made a witty and humorous speech which was thoroughly appreciated by the guests. The bridegroom, who is Norwegian, very suitably replied and impressed everyone with his fluent command of the English language. Mr. Heiberg followed with a speech in Norwegian.

The guests included the following:—The Hon. Mr. C. Gordon Mackie, Mrs. Mackie and Miss Mackie, Mr. A. W. Hay-Edie (brother of the bride), Mr. V. M. Grayburn J.P., Mr. B. E. Greig, Mr. B. WELL-KNOWN MERCHANT

A wedding of great interest to the Chinese community of Hong Kong took place at the Union Church Kennedy Road yesterday when Christina Pong, daughter of the well-known Chinese merchant, Mr. Pong Tsai-ching and Mrs. Pong, became the wife of George Suklay Lau, the only son of Mrs. Lau Suk-chauk. The Rev. E. G. Powell officiated.

The interior of the Church presented a very colourful spectacle, the multitude of colours in the Chinese ceremonial dresses worn by the Chinese ladies contrasting vividly with the great variety of modern creations.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was attended by four maids of honour, Miss Lukmai Luk, Miss Lily Luk, Miss Gloria Mok, and Miss Margaret Chan, while Master Chau Kai-yin was the page boy, and Miss Li Yuk-moi the flower-girl.

The bridegroom had as his attendants, Dr. Leo Ching-wa, the best man, and Mr. Kenneth Pong, Mr. Larry Ko, and Mr. K. T. Cheng as groomsmen.

Following the marriage ceremony, a reception was held at the Gloucester Building, at which many friends attended.

MME. RENEE FLORIGNY
FAMOUS FRENCH
PIANISTEMme. Renee Florigny CONCERT TO BE GIVEN AT HELENA MAY

Madame Renee Florigny, who arrived in the Colony during the week, is claimed to be one of the most distinguished and talented pianists of the present day. She is making a leisurely tour of the world, and local music lovers should count themselves fortunate that she has decided to include Hong Kong in her itinerary.

Madame Florigny received her musical training at the famous Paris Conservatoire, taking her first lesson on the piano at the early age of seven, when she studied under the celebrated maestro Raoul Pugno. Pugno recognised her genius at once and his prophecies concerning her ultimate success have been well borne out. She has been termed "the female Paderewski."

Beethoven, Mozart, and Chopin are her favourite composers, and those who have heard her play declare that her interpretation of these masters is an unforgettable delight, so subtle is her understanding and so finished her technique. Beethoven's Moonlight Sonata is perhaps the favourite item with her public out of her extensive repertoire.

Golden Opinions

Before coming to Hong Kong Madame Florigny visited India, where she gave a series of successful concerts. While in Delhi she played before the Viceroy, Lord Willingdon, from whom she later received a personal letter telling of the pleasure which her playing had given to the Viceroy and Lady Willingdon. She has also won golden opinions in Japan, Peking, Tientsin, and Shanghai.

Madame Florigny has arranged to give a recital, under the distinguished patronage of Sir Thomas Southern and the French Consul, Monsieur G. Dufauré de la Prade, on Monday, January 14, at the Helena May Institute, beginning at 9.15 p.m.

Seats may be booked at Messrs. the Anderson Music Company. Tickets are priced at $3 and $2, including tax.

On The Threshold
Of A New Year
Making And Breaking
Good Resolutions

"The Power To Become"

(By the Rev. J. N. Lewis Bryan.)

ONCE again we are standing on the threshold of a brand-new year. And neither you, nor I, nor anybody else can say with any certainty what sort of a year it is going to be.

The old 1934 we know well enough—some of us a bit too well; but as for this youngster 1935, just newly-born, waiting to shower favours on some of us and to play ducks and drakes with the lives of others, we cannot even guess what he will be up to, either in your case or in mine. We can only hope that he will turn out all right.

The only thing we know about him so far is that, as all his predecessors have done, and all his successors will do, he brings us a clean sheet on which to write the happenings of the next twelve months.

It will probably be a long way from clean by the time we have done with it next December. It will most likely be so blotched and criss-crossed, so full of mistakes, so altogether grubby, that we shall be as glad to be finished with it as we are to be done with old man 1934.

That does not of necessity mean that we have all been thoroughly disappointed and dissatisfied with the year that has just finished. If it brought trouble and bad luck to some, it brought gladness and good luck to others. Some will even look back and say, truthfully, that it has been the very best year of their lives. Yet even so they will be glad to be finished with it; for man is made that way.

Making Fresh Starts
He must ever be looking ahead, making fresh starts, trying to profit from old mistakes, seeking to make good where he has done badly, and to do even better in the future those things which he has done only moderately well in the past.

So each New Year is a milestone on the road of human hopes, or a clean sheet on which to record the things we do and the things done to us, or even another dip in the lucky bag, if you like; the sort of metaphor does not matter. What does matter is that we should make the New Year the occasion for a fresh effort to be better men and women than we have been in the past, to regard it as an opportunity for another strong spurt towards the goal we hope to reach.

We cannot alter the past. What we have written in the last year must stand indelibly and for all time.

$140,100 FROM BANK

Warrant For Arrest Of Former Accountant

A warrant for the arrest of Chan Kai-tsang, former accountant of the Yuen Yieh Commercial Bank No. 236 Des Voeux Road Central, has been issued for the alleged theft of $140,100 from the bank. It is alleged that Chan stole the money while in the employ of the bank between December 24 and December 27 last year.

What chance have they? Almost none. Indeed, until we recognise that no resolution, however noble, can live unless it falls naturally into its surroundings and is carried along and nourished there. You may as well expect a new-born baby to thrive in a refrigerator as a new-born resolution in a life into which it does not fit.

It can grow and live and last only when it is made welcome and at home. A good man can absorb any amount of resolutions without being puffed up. A selfish man may take them in for a moment, but he will not keep them down. They will not stay his way.

It is a new life rather than good new resolutions that we need. For our encouragement we may remember that Christianity, grimly serious about man's unaided efforts, is grandly optimistic about what he may become under the hand and guidance of Him whose gospel is not good advice but good news, and who gives to those who dare to ask it of Him "the power to become."

These can take good resolutions in their stride. Some of us have been paddling our own canoe "long enough," and with indifferent success. Why not make the resolution to face 1935 with the only Pilot worth having?

1935 Royal Academy Winter
Exhibition Entirely Different

London, Yesterday.—H.R.H. the Prince of Wales yesterday opened the Winter exhibition of the Royal Academy, which marks an entire new departure. In recent years these exhibitions have been devoted to displays of art treasures of the past. Galleries this year are, however, showing a wide range of manufactured articles chosen, mainly on account of the beauty of their design, by the committee of the executive and finally approved by the representatives of two great art societies.

In opening the exhibition, the Prince explained that its object was to prove that the British manufacturer, in co-operation with British artists and designers, could produce in all branches of artistic form and utility with sound workmanship. With the fierce competition in the world to-day, he continued, every means of producing better and more attractive things must be explored, and added that, he thought exhibitions will convey the idea of what can be produced by manufacturers to-day in the way of attractive and frequently inexpensive articles with which more fully to enjoy their daily life, he urged the public to show a genuine interest in the improvements in design, combining utility with attractiveness of industrial products, to make it worth while for the increasing production of such articles—British Wireless Service, aboard the craft of pure life.

EXPERIMENTED ON HIMSELF

Supreme Daring Of German Surgeon

TUBE PASSED THROUGH VEIN INTO HEART

A surgeon from Berlin, recognized that it is necessary in certain cases to stimulate the heart directly. Injections through the chest and pericardium into the heart have often been tried, but this always involves a great risk. The surgeon therefore had the idea of introducing a hollow probe into a vein and then pushing it up to the heart, so that the stimulant reached the heart directly. He considers this method less dangerous to the heart than a hypodermic injection.

Experiments upon a corpse showed that a tube introduced into the large vein at the elbow can be easily led to the heart. Thereupon the surgeon experimented upon himself. One of his colleagues opened his vein at the elbow and pushed somewhat over a foot of the tube up it.

At this point the experiment seemed to the assistant too dangerous—though there were no troubles—and he refused to go further. But the surgeon was not satisfied and, as he could not find a willing helper, carried on the whole experiment by himself. He made a cut, under a local anaesthetic, into his left elbow—joint, which laid open the vein, cut this also open and introduced the probe to its full length of about two feet.

The situation of the probe was controlled by X-rays. It lay exactly along the expected bend of the vein and ended in the right ventricle. The experimenter showed more than dare-devil bravery when, with the probe in his heart, he walked from the operating room to the X-ray room; he even had to climb stairs! All that he was able to stand without pain, and without being injured.

A test was soon made upon a sick person. A patient at the point of death and upon whom all other means had been tried in vain was treated in the above-mentioned manner and received a heart stimulant through the tube. For the moment there was an improvement, but it did not last, and after a repetition of the injection, the patient died six hours later.

The surgeon is convinced that in certain cases seriously sick people can be helped over the crisis and thus saved from death. One must admire the courage with which a physician in this self-experiment transferred his bold idea into the still bolder deed.

GIRL LEAVES PARENTS

Takes $110 & Jewellery With Her

LIVES WITH ADOPTED MOTHER-IN-LAW

Lai Tsun, an aged widow, was yesterday morning sentenced to four months' imprisonment by Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistrate's Court for harbouring an unmarried girl, So Yuet-wan, 16 years, without the consent of her parents since March last year.

Inspector K. W. Andrew said that the girl disappeared on March 15 last, and no trace of her had been reported until last Thursday, when she was found in the defendant's house in Pokfulam Road.

The girl had since been living with the woman's son, as man and wife. The son is now in hospital, and, Inspector Andrew said, will face a similar charge when he comes out.

When the girl left her parents, she took away with her $110 and some jewellery. Asked if the defendant's son had any work to do, Inspector Andrew said that he had done one month's work since he had started living with her.

Mr. Schofield: "The he has been spending the girl's money."

Inspector Andrew added that the people in Aberdeen Village, where the complainants are residents, resented the whole affair.

Defendant said that when the complainants went away to the country last year, their daughter refused to go with them, and came to live with her son, who made the girl some dresses.

COLONY DANCING CHAMPIONSHIP

Heats Will Commence To-morrow

FINAL NEXT SUNDAY

Beginning to-morrow the Hong Kong Hotel will stage the first Colony Dancing Championship. The heats will be held at the Roof Garden of the Hotel during tea dance hours, and the final will be decided next Sunday.

During tea dance hours this coming week two couples will be selected each day to participate in the finals. One couple will be chosen by the judges, and the other by popular vote.

The championship will be decided on performances in the modern quick-step and waltz, and competitors will be expected to include at least the basic steps of these dances as previously demonstrated by Andrew and Ursula.

The judges will base their selections on displays of time, rhythm, movement, deportment, rise and fall. A maximum of 25 points for each of these will be awarded.

The competition is open to all amateurs, and those who fail to qualify in the heats are allowed to re-enter.

The names of the judges are being withheld, and it is understood that they will sit at different tables so that they can form independent judgments.

THEFT ON BANK SITE

CHILD SHACKLED FOR THEFT

MAGISTRATE'S REBUKE

"I will not take a lenient view of these cases when people tie small children up, even if they have stolen a few cents. The police is the only remedy," said Mr. E. W. Hamilton when passing sentence of one month's hard labour on Li Chung, a 50-year-old licensed cigarette dealer, who appeared at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court yesterday on a charge of assaulting Li Lu-wing, a 14-year-old boy.

Inspector Shafton, of the Shamshuipo Police Station, stated that the complainant had been given to the defendant's wife over a year ago. The wife then died shortly afterwards, and the defendant has been leaving the complainant in charge of his cigarette stall at No. 123, Kwai Ling Street.

One day the defendant heard that the boy had been buying a lot of sweets, and, upon being questioned, the boy admitted taking 30 cents from the shop and buying sweets. The defendant then shackled the boy's feet and put a chain round his neck and left him tied up.

After several days the boy managed to escape and was seen by the police sitting down at the side of a road trying to take the shackles off his feet. After being questioned the boy took the police to the defendant.

The defendant pleaded that he had not put the chain round the boy's neck, but admitted that he had shackled his feet.

It was also stated that no marks of violence could be found on the boy's body.

solve China's language problem. In his fight for a new medium in this period, he soon secured the support of many scholars, one of these being Mr. Chen Tu-shu, Editor of the radical magazine, "The Youth," then appearing and who later became the founder of the Chinese Communist Party.

SUCCESS ASSURED

"Then an unexpected event occurred which suddenly carried the literary movement to a rapid success. The Peace Conference in Paris had just decided to sacrifice China's claim and give to Japan the freedom to dispose of the former German possessions in the province of Shanghai. When the news reached China, the students in Peking, University, held a mass meeting of protest and, in their demonstration parade, broke into the house of a pro-Japanese minister, set fire to the house, and beat the Chinese minister to Tokyo almost to death. The Government arrested a number of the rioters, but public sentiment ran so high that the whole nation seemed on the side of the University students and against the notoriously pro-Japanese Government. The merchants in Shanghai and other cities closed their shops as a protest against the peace negotiations and against the Government. The Chinese Delegation at the Paris Conference was warned by public bodies not to sign the treaty; and they obeyed. The Government was forced by this strong demonstration of national sentiment to release the students and to dismiss from office three well-known pro-Japanese ministers. The struggle began on May 4 and lasted till the final surrender of the Government in the first part of June. It has been called the 'May the Fourth Movement'.

PEIPING SETS EXAMPLE

"In this political struggle, the Peiping University suddenly rose to the position of national leadership in the eyes of the students. The literary and intellectual movements led by some of the professors and students of the university, which had for the last few years been slowly felt among the youths of the nation, were now openly acknowledged by them as new and welcome forces for a national emancipation. "During the years 1919-1920, there appeared about 400 small periodicals, almost all of them published by the students in the different localities—some printed from metal types, some in mimeographs, and others on lithographs—and all of them published in the spoken language of the people—the literary medium which the Peiping University professors had advocated." Dr. Hu Shih will leave for Canton on Tuesday, where he will also lecture. Later he will visit other southern cities prior to his return to Peiping.

SHEUNG SHUI AGRICULTURAL SHOW

FAST IMPROVEMENT DISPLAYED OVER 5,000 EXHIBITS AS AGAINST 3,100

DR. KOTEWALL HONOURED

A RECORD year for quantity and quality was announced at the eighth annual New Territories Agricultural Show which was opened at Sheung Shui yesterday, when 5,000 exhibits, against last year's 3,100, were displayed, and the number of the exhibitors was increased by over 100.

Astonishment was expressed on all sides at the superior quality of the vegetables and fruits displayed and also at the improvement in results shown by the farmers.

From 10.30 a.m. yesterday, when the gates were opened, there was a constant influx of people from the various districts in the New Territories which continued even after the Show had been officially opened by the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall at 2.30 p.m.

The Show will be open again to-day till late afternoon, when the numerous persons who are desirous of purchasing exhibits will be allowed to do so.

Five special stalls, not for competition, were erected by Lady Ho Tung, Hong Lok Yuen, Tat Tak School, The Nest, and the Botanical and the Forestry Department. Lady Ho Tung's stall contained over 60 exhibits, consisting of Chinese and foreign vegetables, dried ten leaves, eggs and fruit, produced on her farm, the Tung Ying Hok Po. The Hong Lok Yuen entered over 20 exhibits, consisting mostly of vegetables, while the Tat Tak School displayed various vegetables and fruit grown by the students. Two silver shields, one presented by Lady Ho Tung in 1932, and the other presented by Mr. Horace Kadoorie in January last year, were also placed on their stall. These shields were presented to the students for the special attention they had given to agricultural subjects.

Attractive Stall
The newest and most attractive stall was the one arranged by Mr. H. Green on behalf of the Botanical and Forestry Department. The background was made up of branches of pine trees and the various kinds of vegetables were formed into different designs. "The Nest" exhibited the products of their farm at Sheung Shui. Their tomatoes, were considered to be the best at the Show and would have certainly won first prize if they had been eligible for competition. This stall was under the direction of Miss Ellis, manageress of their sales department at Peking Road, Kowloon. Exhibits of cattle and poultry showed an increase of more than 50 per cent over last year. "The improvement in the rearing of cattle and poultry shown this year by the villagers is far beyond our expectations," stated Mr. J. Russell, who is in charge of those sections, to a representative of the Sunday Herald. He added that the farmers have realised that cleanliness is essential in rearing animals and have shown this by bringing cleaner animals to the Show this year. Some animals which should win prizes had been disqualified in the past owing to lack of cleanliness he said.

Grain and Cereals
The stalls set aside for grain and cereals only carried a countless number of exhibits. Never in the history of the Colony has there been such a well-patronised agricultural exhibition. The Agricultural Association's own stall is of a particularly interesting character. Diagrams and pictures showing different kinds of soils are exhibited by Mr. Li Shih Ying, B.Sc., and yesterday Mr. Lam Sai Lim explained to the visitors the various methods of fertilising and improving poor and exhausted soil. At the back of the stall the following quotation was displayed: "Whoever will be perfect in the Science of Agriculture, must not be afraid of soiling his hands". At 2.30 p.m. the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall C.M.G., LL.D., arrived and was welcomed by the band of the Fung Kai School. After a light lunch with the members of the Association, he attended the daily when he was invited by the Rev. H. Wells, chairman of the New Territories Agricultural Association, to declare the Show open.

Those Present
Among those present were:—Lady Ho Tung, Ladies Clara and Margaret Ho Tung, Miss Ho Tung, the Honourable Dr. R. H. Kotewall, Reverend and Mrs. H. R. Wells, Mr. J. T. Bagram, the Hon. Mr. J. P. Braga, Miss Whiting, Miss Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick, Messrs. Fung Ki Cheuk, Tang Wei Tung, Tang Pak Kau, Cheung Tsun Hing, So Dow Shan, Chiu Kam To, Lam Sai Lim, Ng Wah, Pang Shui Kin, Wong Kiu Man, Tang Wei Chee, Ho Hon Wa, Leung Wai Tai, Wong Chi Man, Ng Sing Chee, Fung Kwok Wah, Liu Iling, Liu Cheuk Nam, Pang Fan Sun, Lau Sin Cheung, Li Chun Cheung, and Mrs. Fung Ki Cheuk.

Mr. Robert Ho Tung could not attend owing to a slight indisposition, and much regret was felt by all the members of the Agricultural Association at the absence of Professor J. D. Bush, who is in Canton on business.

Mr. Wells' Speech
Mr. Wells touched briefly on the work of the Association and the gratifying results seen in the exhibits, which were far ahead, both in quality and quantity, of last year's. He also mentioned that the Government had kindly granted the Association some land for experimental purposes, which would be taken in hand early this year.

After adding a few words on the increasing supply of poultry, pigs and other animals to the markets of Hong Kong, he asked Dr. Kotewall to declare the Show open and to present to Mr. Chan Kam-po a shield, in recognition of his splendid work in collecting, last year, the greatest individual amount of subscriptions to the funds of the Association.

Dr. Kotewall's Reply
The Hon. Dr. Kotewall, speaking in Cantonese, replied as follows:—"I count it a great honour to have been asked to open this, the eighth Annual Show of New Territories agricultural products. I have always regarded the work of the Agricultural Association as of the utmost importance to the Colony; and the invitation to perform this ceremony to-day is, to me, a gratifying evidence that my interest in that work is not unknown to some of its members. Ever since the opening of the first Show, at which I had the pleasure of translating Sir Cecil Clementi's speech into Chinese, I have watched with ever-increasing interest and sympathy the steady progress made each year. "You all know that, as things are, the Colony has to import the great bulk of its foodstuffs, and that it is the object of the Association to stimulate a more intensive development of local food supplies, so that the Colony may to a much larger extent utilise its own resources. That this object has the full endorsement of the Government is evidenced by the practical interest shown by successive Governments and by Lady Peel in opening the show on previous occasions. The Government has also manifested its interest in giving an annual donation from public funds, and by the grant of a free site for an experimental agricultural station. "In speaking to an audience so largely composed of Chinese, it is scarcely necessary to emphasise the great importance of the proper production of the food of the people. This has been a paramount concern of the rulers of China for 3,000 years.

"Right down to the end of the Manchu Dynasty the supreme ruler of the land performed regularly twice a year the ceremony of tilling the soil, in order to show the people the vital importance of agriculture. Mencius himself quoted these words from the Book of Rites: 'The prince ploughs himself, and is assisted by the people, to supply the millet. His wife keeps silk-worms and unwinds their cocoons, to make the garments.' Elsewhere the same also says that in the days of old the Prince in Spring inspected the ploughing and made up any deficiency of seed, and the Autumn examined the reaping and made up any deficiency of yield. This ancient function of rule is still as important as it ever was; and the practical interest evidenced by His Excellency the Governor and by the District Officer, who is his chief representative in the New Territories, has the same object in view.

"The Chairman has spoken of the sameness of these annual shows, but this sameness is more apparent than real. Progress may be made without the actual stages being at once visible; but, wherever there is progress there is difference, and difference is not sameness. In this case there are differences in both quality and quantity. That progress is definitely being made is undoubtedly an outstanding example is the production in greater quantities of vegetables of all kinds, and the improvement in the facilities for marketing them. It may be hoped that before very long the New Territories will become an adequate source of supply of all the fresh vegetables required by Hong Kong and its shipping, namely, about thirty tons a day.

Increased Demand
"Another gratifying feature that has been revealed to me by the Chairman is the increased demand made by certain factories, such as the Amoy Canning Factory and the Koon Yick Sauce Factory, for tomatoes, chillies, and white melons from the growers in the New Territories at fairly good prices. This demand is of immediate benefit to our farmers, and should further promote the development for which the Association works. "The Chairman has dwelt at some length on the inefficiency of the water supply during the dry season. I hope that the District Officer and the Superintendent of the Botanical and Forestry Department, both of whom have taken such keen interest in the Association's work, will take this matter up with the Government with a view to devising remedies. As is stated in the Foreword to the programme now in your hands, which I have been privileged to read in proof, millions of gallons of water might be conserved for use in the dry seasons, for a very small expenditure. Such expenditure would certainly be a sound investment from the public point of view for the people lose considerably by recurrent droughts, and proper irrigation of the fields would give them prosperity which would be reflected in the Colony as a whole.

Excellent Soil
"It has sometimes been said that the soil of the New Territories is poor. It may be useful for me to draw attention to the statement made by His Excellency the Governor here in 1932. His Excellency said on that occasion that in the opinion of the Imperial Institute, who had examined several specimens sent to them, the soil of these territories, when assisted with lime, was excellent for the growing of rice and of fruit. With such a favourable report, we need not be apprehensive about future agricultural development in the New Territories. Rice is the staple food of the Chinese, and fruit is consumed in large quantities in the Colony. "The improvement of the soil depends on the intelligent use of fertilisers, both chemical and natural. Artificial fertilisation, especially by chemical fertilisers, is of the greatest importance in modern agriculture. It has for some years been the complaint that chemical fertilisers tend to harden the soil. The use of such products is, however, economical, and should be encouraged. The saving of labour and the increase in output, are so great that all possible assistance and information should be obtained in connection with them.

More Fertilisers Expected
"It may be expected that fertilisers of a certain kind will be available in the New Territories in increased quantities, if the breeding of cattle and pigs is developed, a policy which has been so extensively advocated of late. Increased supply of these fertilisers would enrich the soil and increase its productive capacity. The breeding of cattle and the growing of vegetable products are, therefore, mutually beneficial. "The Chairman, in his speech, has paid deserved tribute to his colleagues on the Committee, but his modesty precluded him from mentioning his own work which, I know, has been invaluable. I have not had the pleasure of collaborating with Mr. Wells in the work of this particular organisation, but I have had the privilege of associating with him in other activities, and I know how energetic, thorough and conscientious a worker he is. I feel no doubt that the present successful position of the Association owes very much to his devoted energy.

"The Colony has been fortunate in having so many able and public-spirited citizens devoting their time to this important work. Among these stand out prominently Sir Robert and Lady Ho Tung who can truly be said to be pioneers in the endeavours and whose efforts have contributed largely to the substantial improvements that have already been effected. To them and to the New Territories Agricultural Association the Colony is immensely indebted. The Committee of the Association perform arduous labour, labours that are not spectacular, and are therefore the more worthy of praise.

Appeal For Co-operation
"An association like this is undoubtedly deserving the sympathy, encouragement and support of every public-minded citizen. In China as in every country to-day, it is realised by those in authority and by all who have studied the subject, that agriculture can be best developed through careful and judicious assistance of various kinds to the farmers. For this purpose, organisation is necessary, and an association such as this furnishes the organisation best adapted to fulfil the purpose of which I have spoken. Advice and information, encouragement and help, can yield the best results only when the Government and private citizens co-operate in the work. Hong Kong is fortunate in having had this co-operation already in existence for so many years.

"Now, I must bring this already lengthy talk to a close. I congratulate most heartily the Committee and members of the Association on the splendid progress they have already made, and sincerely wish them continued and enhanced success in the future. I have much pleasure in declaring this Show open."

Canton's Exhibition
Mayor Liu Chi-wen opened the first Agricultural Products Exhibition in Canton on October 8 last year.

PENSIONS FOR EX-RANKERS

313 M.P.'s Support Increase

No fewer than 313 M.P.'s, representing all parties, have signed a motion urging further consideration of the pensions of certain ex-ranker Army officers who served in the war.

Several thousand warrant and non-commissioned officers who were receiving retired pay in 1914 took commissions in response to an official appeal at the outbreak of war. When they were demobilised they complained against receiving only the 275 a year retired pay they were receiving before the war.

Their claim for higher pensions was rejected by a Select Committee in 1924. The claim has been revived, several times since. The number of officers affected has now shrunk to about 1,500. The desire is that the Government should take steps to remove disabilities from which these men suffer, owing to the terms of their engagement during the war as commissioned officers.

COAL FOR CATTLE
ANGLO-IRISH AGREEMENT

NEWS ANENT DUTY UNAUTHORISED

London, Yesterday.

Despite the fact that the information that British coal was to be admitted to the Irish Free State duty-free emanated from the office of the Irish High Commissioner in London, the position is very confused.

The statement has surprised Dublin, but no denial has been issued.

Mr. Dulanty, the High Commissioner, has now made a statement that whoever supplied the information from his office was unaware of the facts.

No clarification, however, is yet available, but Dublin is asking whether Free State cattle will enter Britain duty-free. — Reuter.

MORE REFORMS IN KWANGTUNG

New Single Land Tax To Be Levied

WEEDING OUT INCOMPETENT OFFICIALS

(From Our Own Correspondent)
Canton, Yesterday.

An official of the Kwangtung Provincial Government announced on Thursday night that the provisional land tax will be collected early in the Spring throughout the province and that the yearly rate is one per cent. ad valorem.

This tax, according to this official, replaces numerous other duties on land. By efficient collection, he said, the income would be greater than ever before, although the burden on the people would be no heavier. He did not state what amount it will yield, but it is under that the new tax will not amount to $10,000,000 a year.

Six counties South of Canton are already paying this tax, as the value of the land there has been assessed after survey by an assessment committee. Twelve counties around Swatow have been under assessment by thirty-two assessment squads.

OFFICIALS OBSERVED.
The provincial official also announced the elimination of incompetent county magistrates by observation. Other civil servants in the counties will come under observation, and later the same process is to be applied to provincial officials. In future, county magistrates are to be appointed by competitive examination.

In order to determine the actual population of Kwangtung, the official stated, a census has been under preparation since October 1, 1934. Such statistics are essential for all kinds of administrative relief and reforms. The census is expected to be completed by the end of February.

Music And Dance In China

Rhythm Dominates All Chinese Life

ILLUSION, NOT REALITY, IS THE GOAL OF ART

(By Phyllis Juby)

A RHYTHM movement still animates the whole of Chinese life. The Chinese is wedded to music; he is born in it, he worships in it, and he dies in it. It is that mysterious influence which proceeds from and contains all the subtleties and accents of nature. "To the tones of the sacred music the Phoenix performs his measured gambols."

"Chimes golden notes each falling leaf
Dew beads with pecking birds resound.
The lonely woods chill crystals fill
With plaintive music from the rill.
A tapering twig perpetually sighs,
Now shrill as a flute, now soft as a mandolin."

The first music of the bamboo tubes is supposed to have been inspired by the rolling waves of the Yellow River; while the movement of a Chinese dance is a soft melodious rhyme, a lyric movement of illusion.

The Chinese quest has ever been for illusion rather than formal beauty. The European egotist seeks for an accurate likeness of his own face and figure. The Chinese know better. Their expression is born of the soft, elusive mist on the Chinese landscape, a mist that covers mountains: so lovely and so gentle, but with what a wealth of life within! The dance, in its perfect combination with strange notes, speaks of the birth of foxes, of the clang of metal and the rustle of silk, and weaves a hundred strange spirals and gods.

Meaning Of Chinese Music
Chinese music is apt to sound strange and discordant to the Western ear. Even the sympathetic listener, who is willing to look for melody and pleasantness of sound, is deterred by the monotony. But in the theatre, the home of Chinese music and dance, the discovery comes that the art of combining the music and movement is carried to great precision of rhythm. It is this combination that shows there is no discord and no haphazard sound in Chinese music. Where the rhythmic combination is not melodious it is not discordant, but a sound fascinating in its strangeness to the ear that is not too far conditioned by the Western love of correctness and representation.

Chinese music is often tender and plaintive in character, and the dance accompanying it has all the grace of the minut. The attitudes and movements of the dancer must express to the eye what the voices and instruments convey to the ear. All the art of movement is a symbolic and playful rhythm without any tendency to imitate or impress reality. Its tradition is studied to perfection, but after the long years of training it becomes so much the soul of the actor that the sophistication is lost, and the simplicity and grace of movement to the rhythmic chant of words and music is its charm. The Chinese have been most sensitive to that rhythm which marks not only life, but the whole universe. The Chinese worker, walking to the beat of his wooden sandals and chanting a street cry, is an expression of dance and music in life. His work is always done in harmonious rhythmic co-operation. The woman beneath her load jogs along in rhythm. It was indeed in matriarchal China, in the seasons of Spring and Autumn, that the dance first became a ritual. It is to rhythmic movement and dance that the Chinese turn for poise, schooled emotions, and harmony of feeling. It was only in puritan Europe that, as Remy de Gourmont puts it, the drinking-shop conquered the dance, and alcohol replaced the violin.

East And West
Our philosophy of life, our dance and our music, are as foreign to the Chinese mentality as our religion—and as comfortless. The Chinese see and feel from a different angle. Let us give the Chinese our modern plumbing, and refrigerators, by all means, but why be so sure of the superiority of our art? Modern European dancing is in some senses decadent. After the sophisticated dances of the eighteenth century we have reached back to the dances of the primitive negro tribes. But our adaptation inevitably lacks the spontaneity, naïveté and ritual sense of the original tribal dances. The Chinese dance, on the other hand, remains cultivated and dignified. There is never the necessity for the dancers to work themselves up to be receptive to certain emotions. The emotions are there, and they are easily conveyed in a rhythm of refinement.

How much better, to keep alive, stimulate and cultivate that art than to encourage Chinese youth to frequent "civilised" nightclubs and dances. An intense cultivation of their dancing and music would give the young Chinese something in which they could easily and naturally express their emotions, instead of reserving them for the expression they learn in American cinemas. The modern civilised product runs wild usually from sheer boredom and repression.

The Slotted Wing

Then there was the slotted wing. The Handley Page technical staff worried over the orthodox aeroplane wing, believing that it must be possible to get greater control both when landing and when taking off. They invented that invaluable slot which, fitted over the leading edge of the wing, falls out automatically to give more lift. It is now standard on almost all R.A.F. machines; on all air liners; and has been built under licence of royalty in almost every country in the world.

When De Havillands were building their Puss Moth, the first light cabin machine, Mr. Rumbold, of Kilburn, came to see them. He had upholstered coaches and carriages in the days of the horse. Now he skipped a stage, ignored the motor, and asked De Havillands if he could be an interior decorator of cabin airplanes. De Havillands agreed.

Light weight and comfort had to be the yardsticks of success in this new trade. This seems obvious enough, but it was Mr. Rumbold who cottoned on to it quickest. For a year, he experimented with different materials, until he almost gave it up owing to cost. Few aeroplanes were being ordered. He was getting little business in return for the reach and expense.

Aeroplane Fittings

Then he travelled the Continent in search of light alloys for aeroplane chairs and fittings; finally he found Electron, a German patent.

This, the lightest metal known, is now made by a Coventry firm. For eight years Mr. Rumbold has been furnishing the interior of air liners, and at the same time making it possible for passengers to throw away their cotton wool and carry on a conversation that should consist of more than bellows, nods, and smiles.

This is how he did it. It was discovered in America that the cedar tree provided a hard-shelled pod from which a silky fibre could be woven into sheets. These are used to line the walls of aircraft cabins.

Over 3,000 square feet of leather are used each week. Mr. Rumbold's business has increased fourfold in the last eight years, and like every trade dependent on aviation, present prosperity, barring accidents, is only the embryo of future fortune.

Belfast is making money because the finest Irish linen is used for aeroplane wings. Millions of yards are made every year for the wings, fuselage and tail planes.

Wonderful Sperry Instruments
Machine, engine, furniture and fittings. What else is there? For one thing instruments; the Sperry Company have been making aircraft instruments since 1918. Even in the early days of the war a "stabiliser" was being made. But it is only in recent years that the perfect instruments to control an aeroplane in fog, cloud and all weather has been on the market. Over 7,500 Sperry Instruments and Directional Gyros have been sold, and these cost about $115 apiece. Without them the British Reid and "Sigrest" turn and bank in dealer, with which most of our machines are equipped, flying by day and night in all weathers would not be possible; and an all-time-table would be a pious hope, and a fact.

The firm has lately invented an automatic pilot which will keep the machine under control on its three axis, costs £1,800, and weighs only 80 lb.

In spite of all other advantages that famous British record for safety in the air would have never grown up, if, through ill-luck, or poor management at the beginning, the aircraft firms had settled down to build machines out of faulty wood. Actually there is never any fracture in the air for this season, and the praise and the profit go to Canada and British Columbian spruce.

I finished writing this article and picked up the paper to look at the prices of aircraft shares... There is certainly fortune in this industry. It may be less spectacular than some on which articles have appeared in this paper; but that is because it is more evenly distributed. Some firms, through bad luck or bad management (probably the latter) may disappoint themselves and their shareholders. But in the long run the barometer of aviation rests at set fair.

fathers were; for Mackall's versions of the Classical authors in English, but still more his versions of modern poets in Greek and Latin, were the models after which the schoolboy vainly strove. That Milton should go easily into Virgilian hexameters was natural enough; but to find Swinburne wearing the clothes of Catullus was more surprising; and a minor poet of England turned into a Pindaric Ode metre was startling. Perhaps his greatest benefit conferred on those capable of finding joy in such things was his revelation of the beauties hidden away in the Greek Anthology, some of the melodies of which, stored in the memory as "repetition" gave one a sense of value to apply to anything that claims the name of poetry.

BRILLIANT BOWLING AT POKFULAM

Gosano Plays Captain's Part Unavailing.

CRUNDEN GIVES NAVY WIN

Despite brilliant bowling by E. L. Gosano, their skipper, the University failed by 15 runs to reach the Navy total of 69 in their opening premier league cricket match this season at Pokfulam yesterday.

Gosano, who wound up the match with 8 for 23 in 12.1 overs, took his last six wickets for 7 runs in 5.1 overs. He hit the stumps on seven occasions.

The University, however, found Lt. Crunden unplayable, and his 7 for 18 in 9 overs gave the Navy their very narrow win.

M.C.C. TOTAL 601

Barbados, Yesterday.

Barbados, who secured a very creditable draw against the M.C.C. in the latter's opening match, will commence the last day's play in their return encounter requiring 359 to save the follow on.

Yesterday "Wally" Hammond carried his overnight score of 158 to 281, being still undefeated when the last M.C.C. wicket fell at 601—the last four wickets added 249 runs!

Smith, the Middlesex bowler, gave invaluable support, scoring 83 in 45 minutes, to add 122 runs for the last wicket.

Barbados, however, replied in no uncertain manner to the huge total, scoring 92 for the loss of one wicket before stumps were drawn.

Scores, as cabled by Reuters, were: M.C.C.: 601 (Hammond 281 not out, Smith 83, R. E. S. Wyatt 65).

Barbados: 92 for 1.

The first of the four Test matches between England and the West Indies will be played on the same ground, commencing to-morrow.

Scoring 69 out of 125 in an undefeated knock which yielded 10 boundaries, A. Kitchell was mainly responsible for Craiggower's total of 175 for 7, a total which proved too big for the Police Recreation Club in their junior league game at the Valley yesterday.

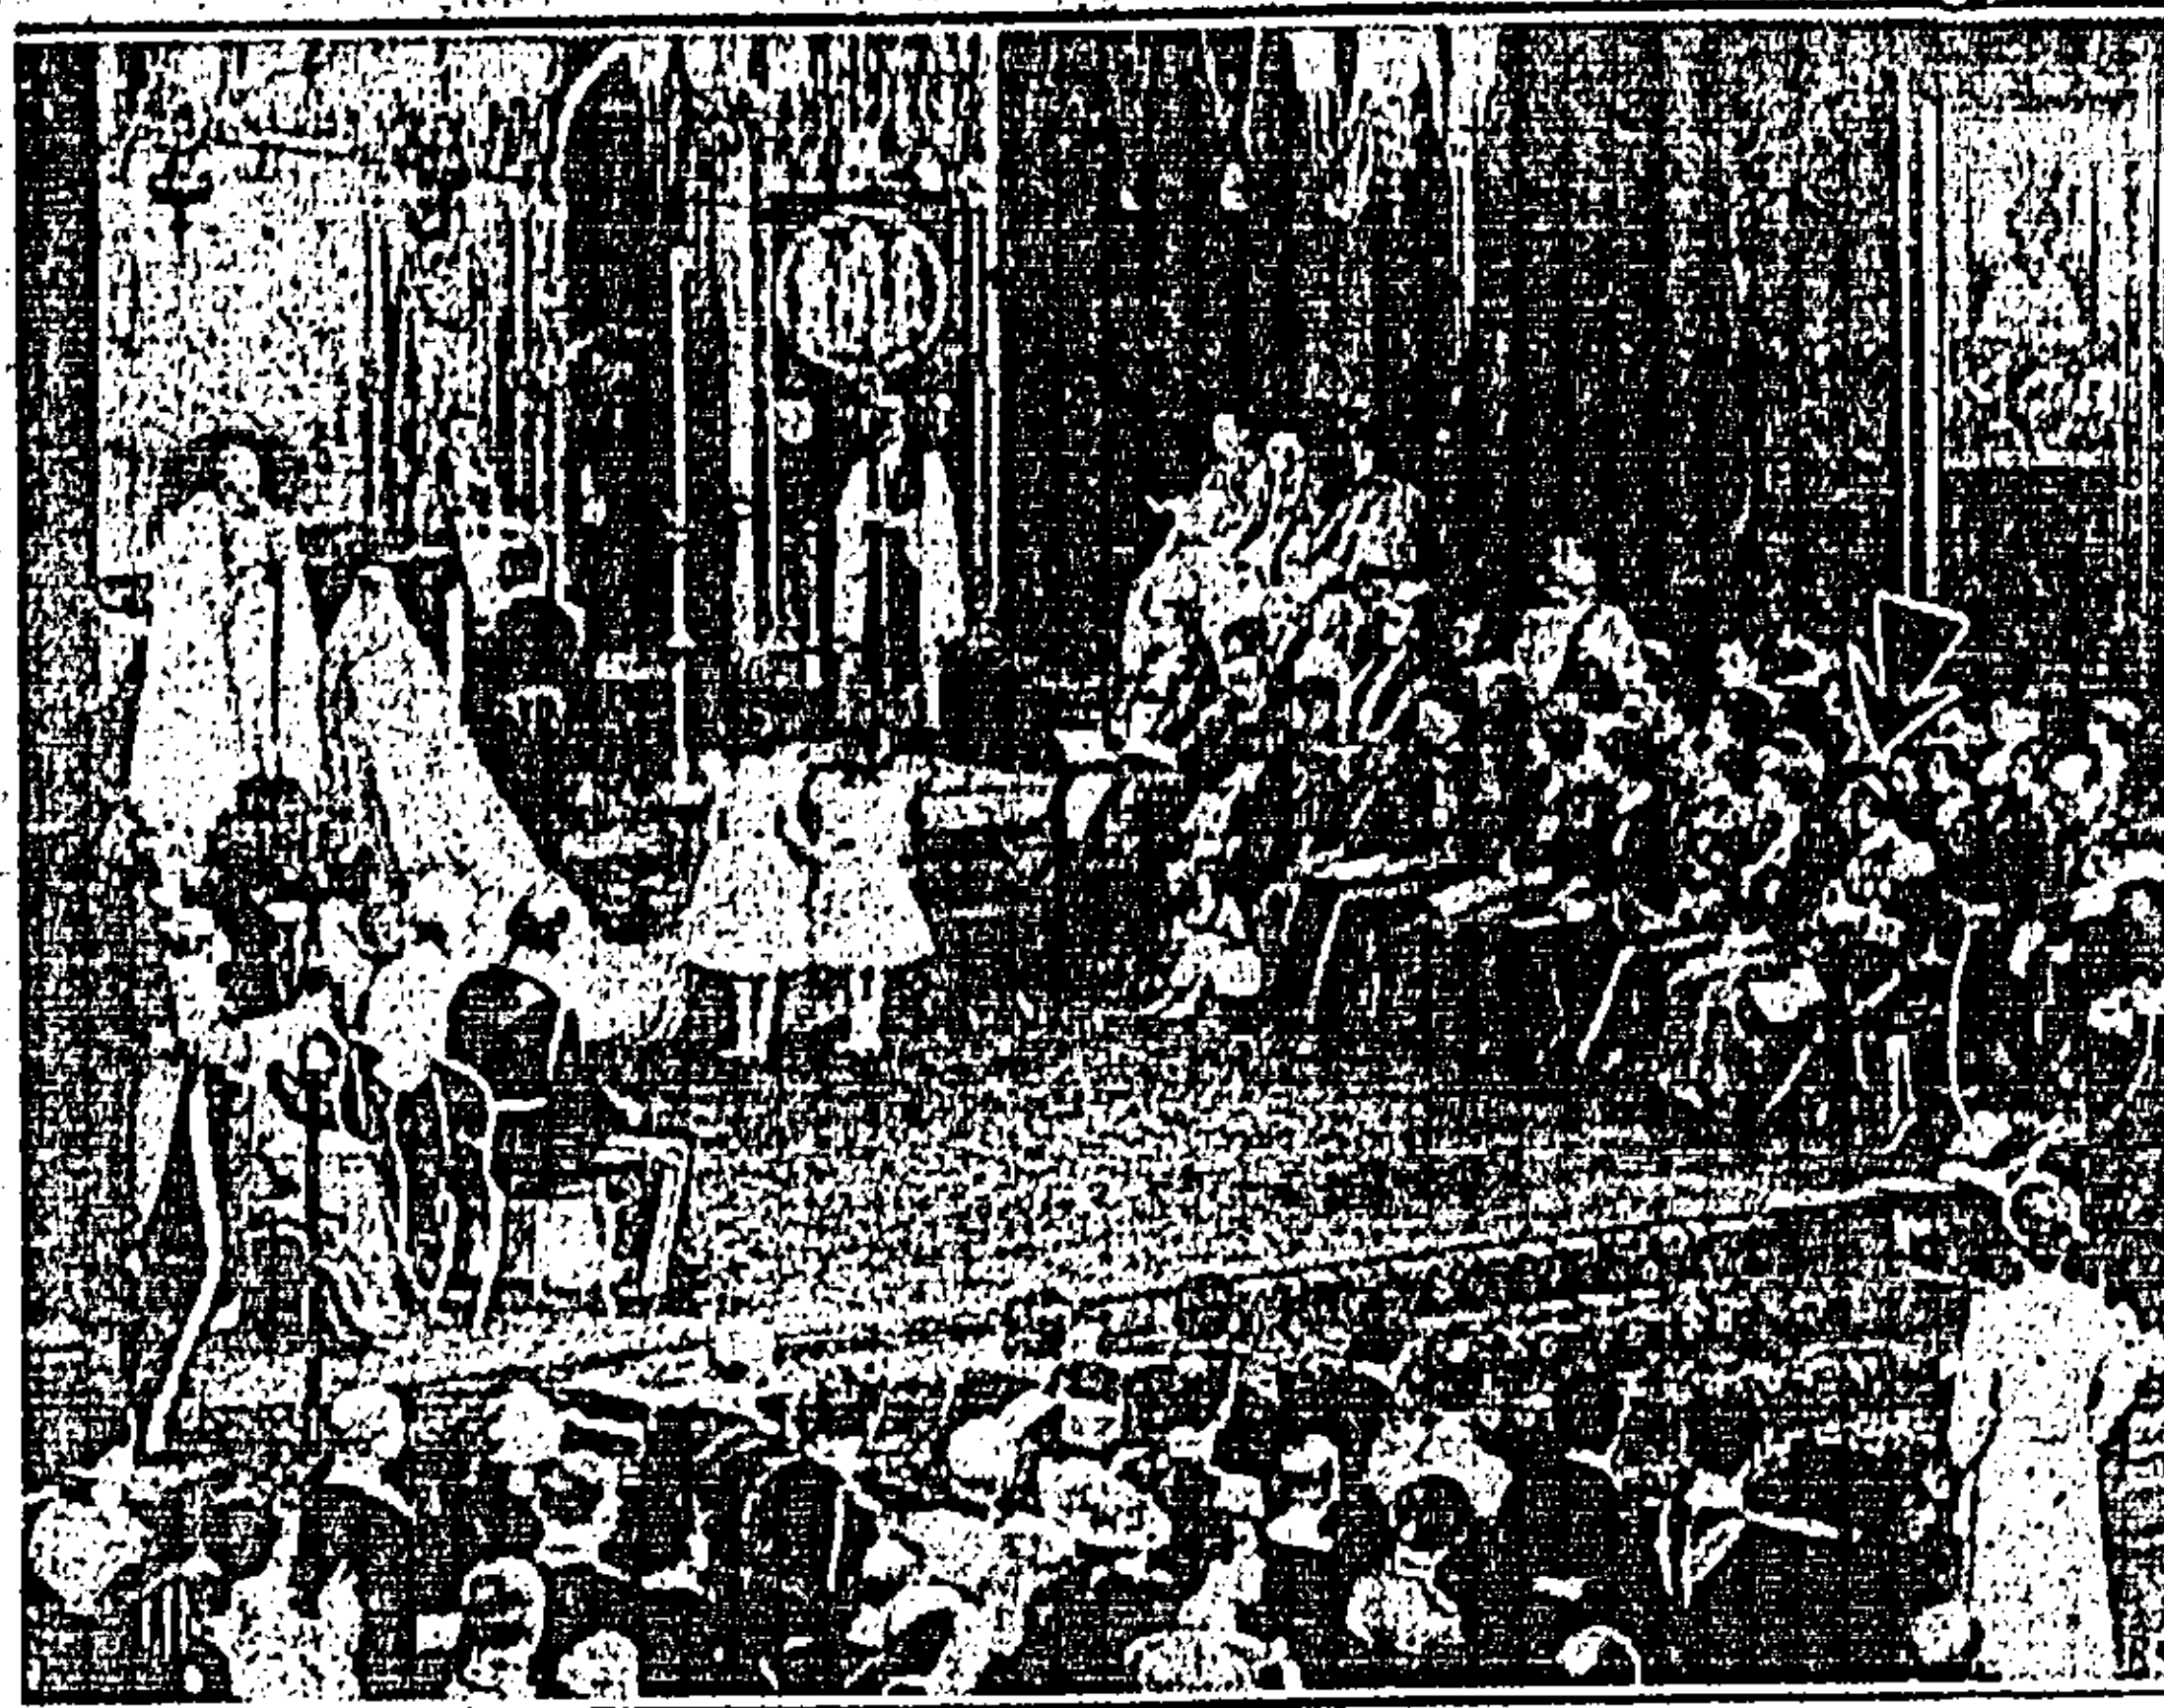

W. E. Meadows carried his bat for a plucky 33, scored out of 60, but was unable to save defeat by 115 runs.

Clark, who was brought into the team at stand-off-half, played a very good game and showed a thorough understanding of Forbes' methods.

Later in the game he was injured and was moved to full-back, Cheyne coming up into his position.

Lammert, the Club back, was not too safe in the opening half when he misjudged the bounce of the ball on several occasions, and had it not been for the backing up of the Club wing-threequarters several scores would have resulted.

Benson Outstanding

Currey, who was brought into the right wing-threequarter position in place of Biggie, was too closely marked by McGilchrist to be really dangerous, while Marsh was not given much rope by Hutchison.

Benson was "much too good" for his opposite number, and executed several dazzling runs, one of them culminating in the Navy's first score.

Rigg, the Club right wing-three-quarter, saw the ball on several occasions, but was not fast enough for St. Clair Ford or Benson, and time and again was "grasped," although late in the second half he broke through, but with nobody to pass to, was bundled into touch.

Robertson was very poor and handled very badly. His passing was wild with one exception—when he sent McGilchrist over for the Club's only try.

McGilchrist very rarely saw the ball, but figured in several dribbles with the forwards, following the ball closely.

Turner's Bad Luck

Turner played his usual game and had very hard luck when he brilliantly cut through on his own in the opening half, but was grasped by Hammett and Benson five yards from the line. On this occasion he was not backed up at all.

Mecke played a very good game and did his best under the circumstances. He very rarely saw the ball, as the pack broke up much too soon and just as the ball was about to emerge from the back row.

Walkden, McLellan, Munro, and Cumming were the best of the Club forwards, and were seen in several concerted efforts.

Scoreless First Half

The first half produced no score, although both teams were nearly over on several occasions, hard tackling being the predominant feature of the encounter.

Not long after the commencement of the second half, Benson, the Navy left centre-threequarter, broke away on the blind side of the pack, and after a dazzling run, sent St. Clair Ford over the opening try.

Whitfield converted with a splendid kick from a position almost on the touchline.

From the restart, Rigg broke away but his pass forwards was intercepted by Marsh, who, unfortunately, knocked on with the Club line at his mercy.

A pass from Mecke saw McGilchrist break away on the left, but his pass inside to Hutchison was forward.

The Navy again scored when Benson broke away on his own. At-though tackled at the last moment by Lammert, he managed to send Marsh away with the ball, the latter diving over the Club line for an unconverted try.

Marsh's Good Effort

From the kick-off, the Club held the Navy in their own half for a considerable time, McLellan missing a penalty kick for feet up in the scrum. In spite of a concerted Club forward rush Marsh fielded brilliantly to streak away on the left touchline and pass inwards for Hammett to go over for the Navy's third try. Roome kick was charged down by Cumming.

Eleven points behind, the Club's first score arrived when the Navy were penalised on the half-way line for feet-up, and McLellan landed a perfect dropped-goal to reduce the deficit.

Not long after, and with only a few minutes to go, a dropped pass by a Navy back saw Robertson gather to send the ball out to Hutchison, who streaked away and passed out to McGilchrist, who scored the Club's first try wide of the posts. McLellan added the goal points with an excellent kick. "No side" was given immediately afterwards.

Major H. J. M. McIntyre refereed, and the teams were:—

HOCKEY CAER CLARK CUP CHAMPIONS LOSE TO THE "Y" LADIES

The encounter was fairly even throughout. The champions were held in the first half to a great extent, but they compensated for this by holding the upper hand throughout the second period.

Penalty Bully

In the second half a penalty bully was awarded against Miss Fowler for "kicks" in the circle, but Miss Dalziel relieved a precarious position for the "Y" when she beat Miss Churchill in the bully-off.

The champions played brilliant hockey in the latter stages of the game, but the "Y" Ladies, with a lead of two clear goals, hung on grimly to their advantage, the defence putting up a stout and spirited resistance.

Miss Hickey, at right-half, played a very useful game, and spoiled magnificently in the second period when she had her hands full in breaking up the Hong Kong Ladies' persistent attacks.

Miss Wilson was the stendler of the two "Y" backs, although Miss Fowler had her "eye-in" and cleared with first-time efforts which were, however, sent into touch or to an opposing player.

Miss Brown, on the "Y" Ladies' left-wing, sent across several useful centres and often had the opposing defence beaten with her terrific speed.

Miss Churchill Good

Miss Churchill, the champions' inside-left, was one of the outstanding forwards on display, but she received very poor support and failed to break through on her own.

The two backs, Miss Smalley and Miss Grey, were also seen to advantage, especially in the opening half when they were thoroughly tested.

The first score arrived ten minutes from the commencement when Miss Dalziel took a pass on the run and cut through brilliantly to not with a fast shot from close-in.

Not long after the same player scored the "Y" Ladies' second goal which culminated a short run and scramble in the champions' goal-mouth.

In the second half, the Hong Kong Ladies held the upper hand, but despite repeated attempts, failed to score.

The teams were:—
H.K. Ladies:—B. Hance; E. M. Gray; J. Smalley; N. McKenna; B. Pope; H. Hobbins; W. Marsh; C. Ferguson; Mrs. P. M. Harrop; J. Churchill; and A. Jacks.

"Y" Ladies:—W. George; J. Wilson; A. Fowler; L. Hickey; E. Thomson; B. Blumenthal; V. Bradbury; B. Walker; S. Dalziel; P. McCaw and O. Brown.

SAINTS RECEIVE SURPRISE CHECK

The Saints were weakened by the absence of Miss M. Churn from the left-wing, and Miss A. Chubb, who has played in this position in several friendly games for them, was again seen in partnership with Miss P. Gitten.

The Recreio have their defence, as well as a bit of luck, to thank for the one point gained, as the defence, who were continuously tested, played a very good game, stopping and clearing with great accuracy.

Luck played a part in their success, when St. Andrew's made a swift attack during which Miss P. Everest hit the upright.

Kowloon's Soccer Comeback

KOWLOON WIN OVER LANCES WAS WELL MERITED

The defence had a busy afternoon, and came through well. Swain received an injury in the first period, and was off for a while, but resumed in the second half, though he was limping badly. He and Gorman did their job well, covering each other's movements in splendid fashion. Harmsworth appeared safe, but had no chance against the goals.

The half-backs bore the brunt of the Kowloon attack, and succeeded in breaking up many threatening movements. They tackled well and gave their forwards every chance possible. Smith was here, there and everywhere, and in the closing stages, played himself to a standstill in his efforts to place the Lances on equal terms.

Carroll and North provided sound support, and with most of the play on the left, North and Tulley initiated many movements from which a score should have resulted. Tulley was undoubtedly the best of the Lances forward line, and apart from his own close attempts, gave the inside men innumerable chances, which they were too slow to take.

Indecisive Finishing

Horne and Thorpe worked the ball through well, and Swain made the most of his few opportunities. Lawton put in a tremendous amount of work, all of which led nowhere, and the indecision of the inside forwards when facing the goal, spoiled all their previous good approach movements.

Kowloon attacked from the start and Oxford was forced to save shots from G. White and Jones in the first few minutes. From a break-away, the Lances pressed in the Kowloon goalmouth, and a penalty for "hands" was awarded against Eastman. Gorman gave Boyes no chance with the spot-kick.

Jones had hard luck when his carefully placed shot rebounded off the upright. At the other end Boyes saved a splendid effort by Tulley, and later Lawton shot over in front of an open goal. Returning to the attack, Elliott cleverly pushed the ball through to Jones, whose shot gave Oxford no chance. No further score was registered before the interval.

Kowloon Take Lead

After the resumption, the Lances nearly took the lead when Tulley bent Davies, and lobbed the ball to Lawton, whose header was just tipped over the bar by Boyes. A good run and centre to Elliott by V. White, gave Elliott a good opening, and his first-time effort was only partly cleared by Oxford. The ball went to Jones, who netted before Oxford could recover to place Kowloon in front.

The Lances attacked fiercely, but Morrison and Eastman were equal to the occasion, and gave nothing away. Jones secured, and drawing the defence, transferred to G. White, who scored from a difficult angle.

The Lances fought back desperately in an effort to reduce the lead and were rewarded when Horne broke through and shot past the advancing Boyes.

Kowloon:—Boyes; Eastman and Morrison; Davies, Bliss and Gilchrist; V. White, Elliott, G. White, Jones and Knox.

E. Lances:—Oxford; Swain and Gorman; Carroll, Smith and North; Swain, Thorpe, Lawton, Horne and Tulley.

The lead was not held for long, however, the Fusiliers equalising through Donnie, who headed into the net.

Clut Of Goals

After the interval, the Fusiliers were without Wanklyn, but, nevertheless, contrived to hold their own for a considerable period. Then came a glut of goals. Four inside of ten minutes.

The first came from Roberts as the result of a clever opening by Parry, and the same player went through again to net another well out of Roger's reach.

The Club then had their revenge, Bickford driving a great shot at Rowlands who partially stopped it for Strange to complete the work by netting.

After several exchanges the Club went ahead when Howe made a clever passage for himself and netted with a cross-shot. He followed this effort with an almost identical effort for the last goal of the match.

Club:—Rodger; Gamble, S. Strange, Tavlin, Pote Hunt, Duncan; Fowler, Drown, Howe, E. Strange and Bickford.

Fusiliers:—Rowlands; Wanklyn; Keating, Grindley, Kennaghan, Ellis, Parry, Harrison, Dennis, Talbot and Roberts.

TO-DAY'S SENIOR SHIELD SOCCER ENCOUNTERS

Can The Navy Hold South China "A"?

POLICE HAVE DIFFICULT TASK AT KOWLOON

The Royal Navy, who last won the Senior Soccer Shield in 1921, will be very strongly represented this afternoon, when they clash with South China "A", last year's shield finalists, on the Royal Navy and Marine soccer ground at Causeway Bay.

With one exception, South China "A" are fielding the team which has so far remained unbeaten in the Senior League. Wong Mei-shun leading the intermediate line in the absence of Leung Wing-chiu, who is indisposed.

The Navy have made two changes in their team. McGuire will again lead the halves, instead of Gilbert, who is being temporarily rested, while Skinner makes a reappearance on the right-wing in place of Cosens.

Wearmouth Inside

Wearmouth, who has filled the wing position for the major part of the season, has been moved to the inside-right berth.

Much will depend upon the defences, particularly the Navy's, who will be strongly tested by probably the fastest combined-forward-lines in China.

Fung King-cheong, after an absence of two weeks, will again direct the Chinese attack, and, together with Tam Kong-pak and Tay Quee-ling, will prove the biggest menace. Skinner, Cannell, and Wearmouth will be the most dangerous of the Navy forwards, while McGuire in the pivot position, supported by Love and Pyatt, will be difficult to pass.

Kowloon's Shield Tie

At Kowloon, the Lincolns are favoured to enter the Second Round against the Police, although the latter are quite likely, after a prolonged lapse, to return to form and sweep the soldiers off their feet.

Ridley and Higgins will be the mainstay of the soldiers' attack, with Ash and Edmondson, the backs, offering a stern resistance.

Much will depend upon snap opportunities, for the defences on both sides are fairly sound, and if anything is to succeed, it will be drives from outside the penalty area.

The Police forwards have the makings of a fine attack, their only fault being that they will not attempt to shoot when within range, but attempt to walk the ball into the goalmouth.

Lincolns Favoured

In the Junior Shield, the Lincolns are favoured to enter the second round with a win over the Engineers, as they are far above the Sappers in team and individual work.

The following is the forecast with the favoured team given in capital letters.

Navy v. S. CHINA "A" (Causeway Bay, 4 p.m.)
v. LINCOLNS (Kowloon, 4 p.m.)
JUNIOR SHIELD v. LINCOLNS (Kowloon, 2.30 p.m.)

KOWLOON BEATEN BY NAVY

Videro Alone Saves Bigger Defeat

WINNERS' FORWARDS SHINE

The Navy junior, the holders, entered the Third Round of the Junior Shield when they defeated Kowloon by three goals to nil at Causeway Bay yesterday.

About fifteen minutes before the final whistle Hickman came into collision with McNeill, and, receiving severe injuries to his shoulder, had to leave the field for the remainder of the game.

Videro between the sticks played a good game, especially during the latter stages of the second half, and to him must be given credit that his team were not beaten by a greater number of goals.

The Navy owe their victory to the fast and forward methods of their forward line. Adams, McNeill and Dadds were outstanding in at-almost equalised a moment later, a fine drop shot going over the bar. Wong made a remarkable fine save, conceding a corner, when Li Shik Yau took a pass from Lai Shui Wing to send a terrific shot goalwards.

The second goal was scored after 15 minutes play, Yeung Shui Yick passing to mid-field for Tsang King Kee to net his second goal. South China continued to press until half time, Leonard relieving the situation somewhat when he took the ball away to bring Wong to his knees with a fine ground shot. There was no more scoring during the first half.

On resuming the Chinese, repeated their prowess of the first half, Yeung Shui Yick going away to pass to Cheung Shek Kam who had little difficulty in beating Wong with a shot to the roof of the net. The Saints retaliated in the next moment, Elms taking the ball down for Hertridge to reduce the lead with a pile-driver that had Wong Wa Kai beaten all the way.

Fourth Chinese Goal

After twenty minutes play Lai Shui Wing took the ball up and passed to Yeung Shui Yick who scored the fourth goal. Wong made a fine save just after when he stopped a drive from twelve yards by Cheung Shek Kam. The last goal of the game, scored about 10 minutes from the end, was a fine one, Cheung Shek Kam driving the ball in from the right wing for it to strike the inside of the upright and bounce inwards.

St. Joseph's:—Wong; Souza, Dellar, Addis, Leonard, Elms; Victor, Bentley, Ward, Hertridge and Costa.

S. China:—"P"—Wong Wa Hui; Kam, Lai Tak Po, Henry Young; Yeung Shui Yick, Lai Shui Wing, Tang King Kee, Cheung Shek Kam, and Li Shik Yau.

CLUB TROUNCED BY LANCES

Sandford Goes Nap In Total Of Seven

HOPELESSLY ONE-SIDED GAME

A very one-sided game on the Kowloon ground yesterday, saw the Club juniors routed by the East Lances, by 7 goals to nil in the Junior Shield series.

Payne, the Club custodian, had little chance against the goals scored, and effected some good clearances during seventy minutes of almost continual pressure. Ralston was the pick of the backs, and although rather slow, he managed to foil several of the Lances fast movements. His partner, Blaine, was unsteady in his kicking, and badly out of position at times.

Sandford Scores At Will

In the second half, Thompson initiated a good movement, and Sandford scored again, from Griffin's pass. A penalty for hands against Ralston was taken by Griffin and easily converted. A few minutes later, Eckersley sent Ralston through, and the latter player shot into the corner, giving Payne no chance. A beautiful centre by Pritchard was secured by Griffin, who passed to Sandford for the sixth goal to be registered, making Sandford's fourth goal. During the last few minutes, after several very close attempts, Payne pushed out a shot from Pritchard and Sandford rushed into net the seventh, and final goal of the match.

E. Lances:—Harmsworth; Harwood and Steel; Walkden, Thompson and Eckersley; Pritchard, Crossley, Sandford, Higgins and Griffin.

Club:—Payne; Blaine and Blaine; Nicholls, Forrow and Bitter; Williams, Fisher, Purves, Hill and Kerloffsky.

tack, and with McNeill in the centre, ever ready to snap up a chance, gave the Kowloon defenders a busy time. They were ably supported by Horne, Bower and Smith.

Adams opened the scoring before the interval. The Navy third goal came in, exactly the same manner as the second—a "breakaway" by Dadds on the wing and a perfect centre to McNeill to head into the corner of the net on each occasion.

Navy:—McSweney; Solomon, Smith; Gilbert, Bower, Horne, Dadds, McNeill, O'Donnell Adams.

Kowloon:—Videro; Willis, Hickman; Tillery, Roberts, Whelan, Winch, Court, Cutter, Hayes, Perera.

SOUTH CHINA LUCKY

Ordnance Should Have Won By Fair Margin

DUFFIELD'S GREAT DISPLAY

South China's junior string qualified to enter the Second Round of the Junior Shield yesterday when they defeated the R.A.O.C. at Caroline Hill by 2 goals to 1.

The Ordnance had only themselves to blame for their defeat, as they had most of the play and, as a team, were superior to the Chinese. Weak kicking and missed opportunities, however, cost them the tie. The soldiers should have netted at least six times during the first half.

The weak link was Routledge, who was decidedly off form. He played a tireless game, working very hard, but he seldom connected and innumerable chances went astray. Good, at outside-right, was weak during the first half, being slow in keeping up, but in the latter stages he gave an inspired exhibition, his centres being perfect, and his ball control in fast dribbles exceedingly good.

Duffield's Brilliance

The best player on the field was Duffield; he played a wonderful game, perhaps he wandered too far from his position, but at times it was necessary.

The trio, Worsfold, O'Brien and Duffield are too good, on yesterday's form, for Third Division football, and, given the opportunity by some senior civilian club, should make names for themselves during their stay in the Colony.

The Ordnance had hard luck in the opening minute, as from the centre kick Worsfold took the ball down his wing and from his centre Duffield headed just wide. A fine opportunity was missed by the soldiers about ten minutes from half-time. A penalty was awarded for an offence against Routledge and O'Brien's shot just skimmed the upright.

South China Score

Lau Cheung Kwong opened the scoring ten minutes after the interval, running through on his own to draw Hollins out of his goal before directing the ball into the empty net. Ho Chi Wing had hard luck a moment or so later when he sent a nice shot over the bar. After twenty minutes' play, Gooch equalised for the Ordnance by heading a perfect centre from a corner kick by Good into the side of the goal. Chan Tak Fai was unlucky when he took a doliberate shot from the penalty spot only to see it scrape the bar and go out of play. Just before time Tau Teek Kam received the ball and wriggled his way through the defence. Hollins dashed out, but was deluded and Tau scored by walking the ball into the net.

R.A.O.C.:—Hollins; Gooch, McQueen, Parker, Prince, Gosling; Good, Duffield, Routledge, O'Brien and Worsfold.

South China:—Tang; Yat Ming; Eugene Cheong, Cheong Ying, Chan, Wu Cho Lok, Ho Chi Wing, Mak Yui Sang, Tau Teek Kam, Chan Tak Fai, Lau Cheung Kwong, Chow Yui and Lai Fat Chol.

ARTILLERY TOO GOOD FOR AIR FORCE

Should Have Won By Bigger Margin

TOO HASTY SHOOTING

The Royal Artillery qualified for the Second Round of the Junior Shield in a fast encounter at Happy Valley yesterday when they beat the Royal Air Force by 2 goals to 1.

The Artillerymen were much the stronger team and had all the best of exchanges in the first half, in fact they should have, had they not been too hasty in shooting when in front of goal, easily have scored more than once. The Artillery had great difficulty in settling down and undoubtedly MacKintosh in their goal saved them from a larger defeat. Considering the serious bombardment in the first few minutes of the match it was not surprising to see Thompson, the Artillery inside left, net their first goal by a grand shot from some 20 yards.

After the interval the R.A.F. greatly improved, and it was not long before they carried out a smart move along the left wing for Thompson to pass to Gregory for the equaliser. It looked almost as though extra time would have to be played when Thompson headed in from a corner.

Royal Artillery:—MacKintosh; Frigo; Yoxall; Worthington, Hunt, Fisher; Rivers, Leach, Brown, Thompson, Taylor.

R.A.F.:—MacKintosh; Borington, Dauchamp, Aldridge, Allen, Murray; Henderson, Farmer, Gregory, Thompson and Ewart.

SERVICE CORPS BEAT VARSITY

Second Half Superiority Results In Three Goals

FORSYTHE AND FULLER VERY SAFE

At Happy Valley yesterday, the Royal Army Service Corps defeated the University by four clear goals after leading by an only goal at half time in their Junior Shield clash.

Goan, at centre forward for University, worked very hard, but was inclined to hang on to the ball too long, with the result that nothing came of the forward attacks. Forsythe and Fuller were very safe at left and right back, respectively, tackling and clearing to good advantage.

From the commencement the Service Corps took up the attack and from a good pass from Eycott, Flood had hard luck with a header. The University broke away and came very near to scoring after a good movement by Goon and Yong.

The Service Corps netted, shortly before the interval from a free kick for a foul, and from about 30 yards Crayford sent in a hard shot which had Lim well beaten.

Service Corps Superior

After the interval the Service Corps assumed the offensive, and Lim was called upon to save shots in quick succession from Clarke and Beasley, and, following a good solo effort by Clarke, who put the ball across the goalmouth from practically on the dead line, Eycott netted.

The Service Corps were soon after rewarded with a third goal when Clarke netted with a hard ground shot after receiving from Flood.

The Service Corps' fourth goal came shortly before the final whistle, Eycott sending in a hard drive across the goalmouth which K. Y. Lee in attempting to clear put through his own goal.

University:—Lim; Ang, K. Y. Lee; Law, Tan, Too, S. H. Lee, Yong, Goon, Chong and Lew.

R.A.S.C.:—Cooper; Fuller, Forsythe; Jennings, Daley, Crayford; Eycott; Beasley, Clarke, Flood and Hopcroft.

The End In Sight

In the sixth round Prandy hit Dee at will, and, in spite of repeated protests from the crowd who called for the fight to end, Dee hung on grimly, and Prandy ended the round by connecting a straight left to Dee's right eye, which fast began to close.

The beginning of the seventh round was the signal of a general onslaught, and as Dee went to the boards, his seconds throw in the towel.

Mr. G. G. N. Tinson, Chairman of the Hong Kong Boxing Association, then presented Prandy with the belt.

Brilka Disappoints

In the 10-round welterweight contest between Brilka and Appleby, the German boxer proved very disappointing and never landed a telling blow throughout the six rounds, while Appleby, who believed in mixing it from the start, shook the German with some terrific hooks and uppercuts, securing the fight on a technical knockout in the sixth round when Brilka was unable to stand.

Mel Holmes, of the U. S. S. Mindanao, provided a great deal of amusement with his crotchety style and fought a delightful six rounds.

FUSILIERS HAVE NARROW SHAVE

Goal In Last Minute Calls For Extra Time

MEDICALS THEN OUTPLAYED

Extra time had to be played before a decision could be arrived at in the Shield match in which the Fusiliers beat the R.A.M.C. by 5 goals to 3 at the Valley.

At the interval no goals had been scored, but each team was very busy in the second half and both scored three times. The extra 20 minutes' play, however, went in favour of the Fusiliers whose performance showed that little extra bit of training and stamina.

After the interval Pim scored almost immediately after the kick-off for the Medicals. It was a smart goal from several yards out and had Saunders the Fusiliers goalkeeper beaten. The Fusiliers equalised following a pass from Cresty on the left wing, Cankley scoring.

It was not long, however, before Youd, the inside-left, headed through to send the Medicals ahead, but Cresty soon after equalised.

The Medicals played well, and Pim, their centre forward, who was working hard throughout the keen struggle, soon gained the lead when a pass from Inge enabled him to send the ball smashing into the Fusiliers goal.

With only a minute to go a misunderstanding during a raid by the Fusiliers caused the Medicals goalkeeper, Wright, to run out to collect and clear the ball. Before he could do so, however, Cresty had nipped in and netted the third goal for the Fusiliers. Immediately after this the final whistle blew.

Extra time was therefore played and spectators witnessed a typical cup tie game with both teams making desperate efforts to add the decider. Five minutes from the re-start Hughes, the Fusiliers' inside right, came through with a smart run and netted the fourth goal for them. The Medicals were tired rapidly and just before the final whistle Croakley rushed through and netted with a fast shot.

Fusiliers:—Saunders; Wheeler, Cankley; Edge, McHugh, Jones, Evans, Hughes, Conkley, Bunster and Cresty.

R.A.M.C.:—Wright; Reeves, Liveridge; Mellington, Goutly, Inge; Wright, Peels, Pim; Youd and Snooks.

RECREIO WIN OVER POLICE

Clear-Cut Shield Success

FIVE GOALS AFTER INTERVAL

In their Junior Shield game at King's Park yesterday the Recreio earned the right to enter the next round by defeating the Police by 3 goals to 2.

Although the score suggests a fairly even encounter, the Recreio had by far the best of the exchanges, and should have won by a wider margin.

The game opened with a quick rush by the Police, and a miskick by Silva nearly gave the Police the lead, but Fernandes just managed to clear. Raids at both ends were frequent, and once Santos netted, but was adjudged offside.

The Recreio always appeared dangerous when in possession, but the Police methods were slow and cumbersome in comparison.

There was no score in the first half, but soon after play resumed, a splendid centre by Aquino was secured by Campos, and he gave McHardy no chance with a well-placed shot. The Police quickly equalised however, Bone shooting through a crowd of players. The Recreio went ahead once more, Santos breaking through on his own, and shooting high into the net. The Recreio carried all before them at this stage, and increased their lead through Aquino, who scored with a splendid long-range shot.

In the last two minutes the Police decreed the lead, when Channings converted a penalty awarded for a foul on Bone. The game concluded with the Recreio pressing home their advantage.

Recreio:—Fernandes; Silva, Maher, Castilho, Pigeiro, Remedios; Marques, Campos, Santos, Lawrence and Aquino.

Police:—McHardy; Gregg, McTavish; Shalikin; Channing, Jessop; Sullivan, Downman, Bone, Shepherd and Manning.

Impossible to have a toy tent this year. Those boys and girls who have not won anything will receive a small consolation prize of an orange and a bar of chocolate as they go out.

"We are very glad that we have Lady Southern with us this afternoon. She has always been very closely connected with the Club, and it was she who opened our new club-house two years ago. This, I believe, is her first public appearance since she became an officer of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire.

"You will allow me to congratulate her and thank her very much for coming along this afternoon." Lady Southern was then asked to present the prizes. After the presentation "three cheers and a tiger" were called for, and the youngsters responded vigorously. Lady Southern was presented with a beautiful bouquet by Miss May Brown.

Lady Southern Replies

Lady Southern then said: "Thank you very much indeed for all the nice things you have said about me, Mr. Lindsell, I have had great pleasure in coming here this afternoon, and I hope you have all enjoyed it as much as I have. I hope next year you will let me join in the sports with you, as I am the world's champion at the egg-and-spoon race."

Develop Chinese Art!

The energy and talent of the Chinese can be developed to stimulate the Chinese arts. Local schools would do well to foster and encourage the theatrical traditions. Oriental theatrical art, which is mainly Chinese, has had an ever-increasing influence in the West since 1850. That influence has never waned, but waxes stronger and is no friend to imitative naturalism. The realisation of the fertility of naturalism on the stage has been recognised by such men as Max Reinhardt. It is an attempt to stimulate the intellect and imagination of the audience rather than a sense of reality that is gaining in significance. Why then let this art with such widening influence die for some future generation in China to excavate and reconstruct? Why not keep it living and stimulated here in its natural element?

The Chinese piano is a lovely and rich accompaniment to Chinese singing. How well their music suits them; their dress, their appearance, the atmosphere they create. It is all picturesque and illustrative and worlds removed from our realistic mode of expression. Why should their aesthetic life be moulded by the West? On the contrary, Chinese music should be encouraged in the schools and not merely tolerated as a rare private ambition. No inferiority complex should be developed in the Chinese child about his own country's music, but rather about the pathetic attempts to imitate a European music totally foreign to the whole Chinese nature and appearance.

"Let ceremonies and music have their course until the earth is filled with them," said a Chinese philosopher. And the dance is the ceremonial movement that pictures the music. In that perfect combination of sound and movement, so essentially Chinese, Man might well become Heaven, as was Confucius' wish.

A BACHELOR ON MARRIAGE

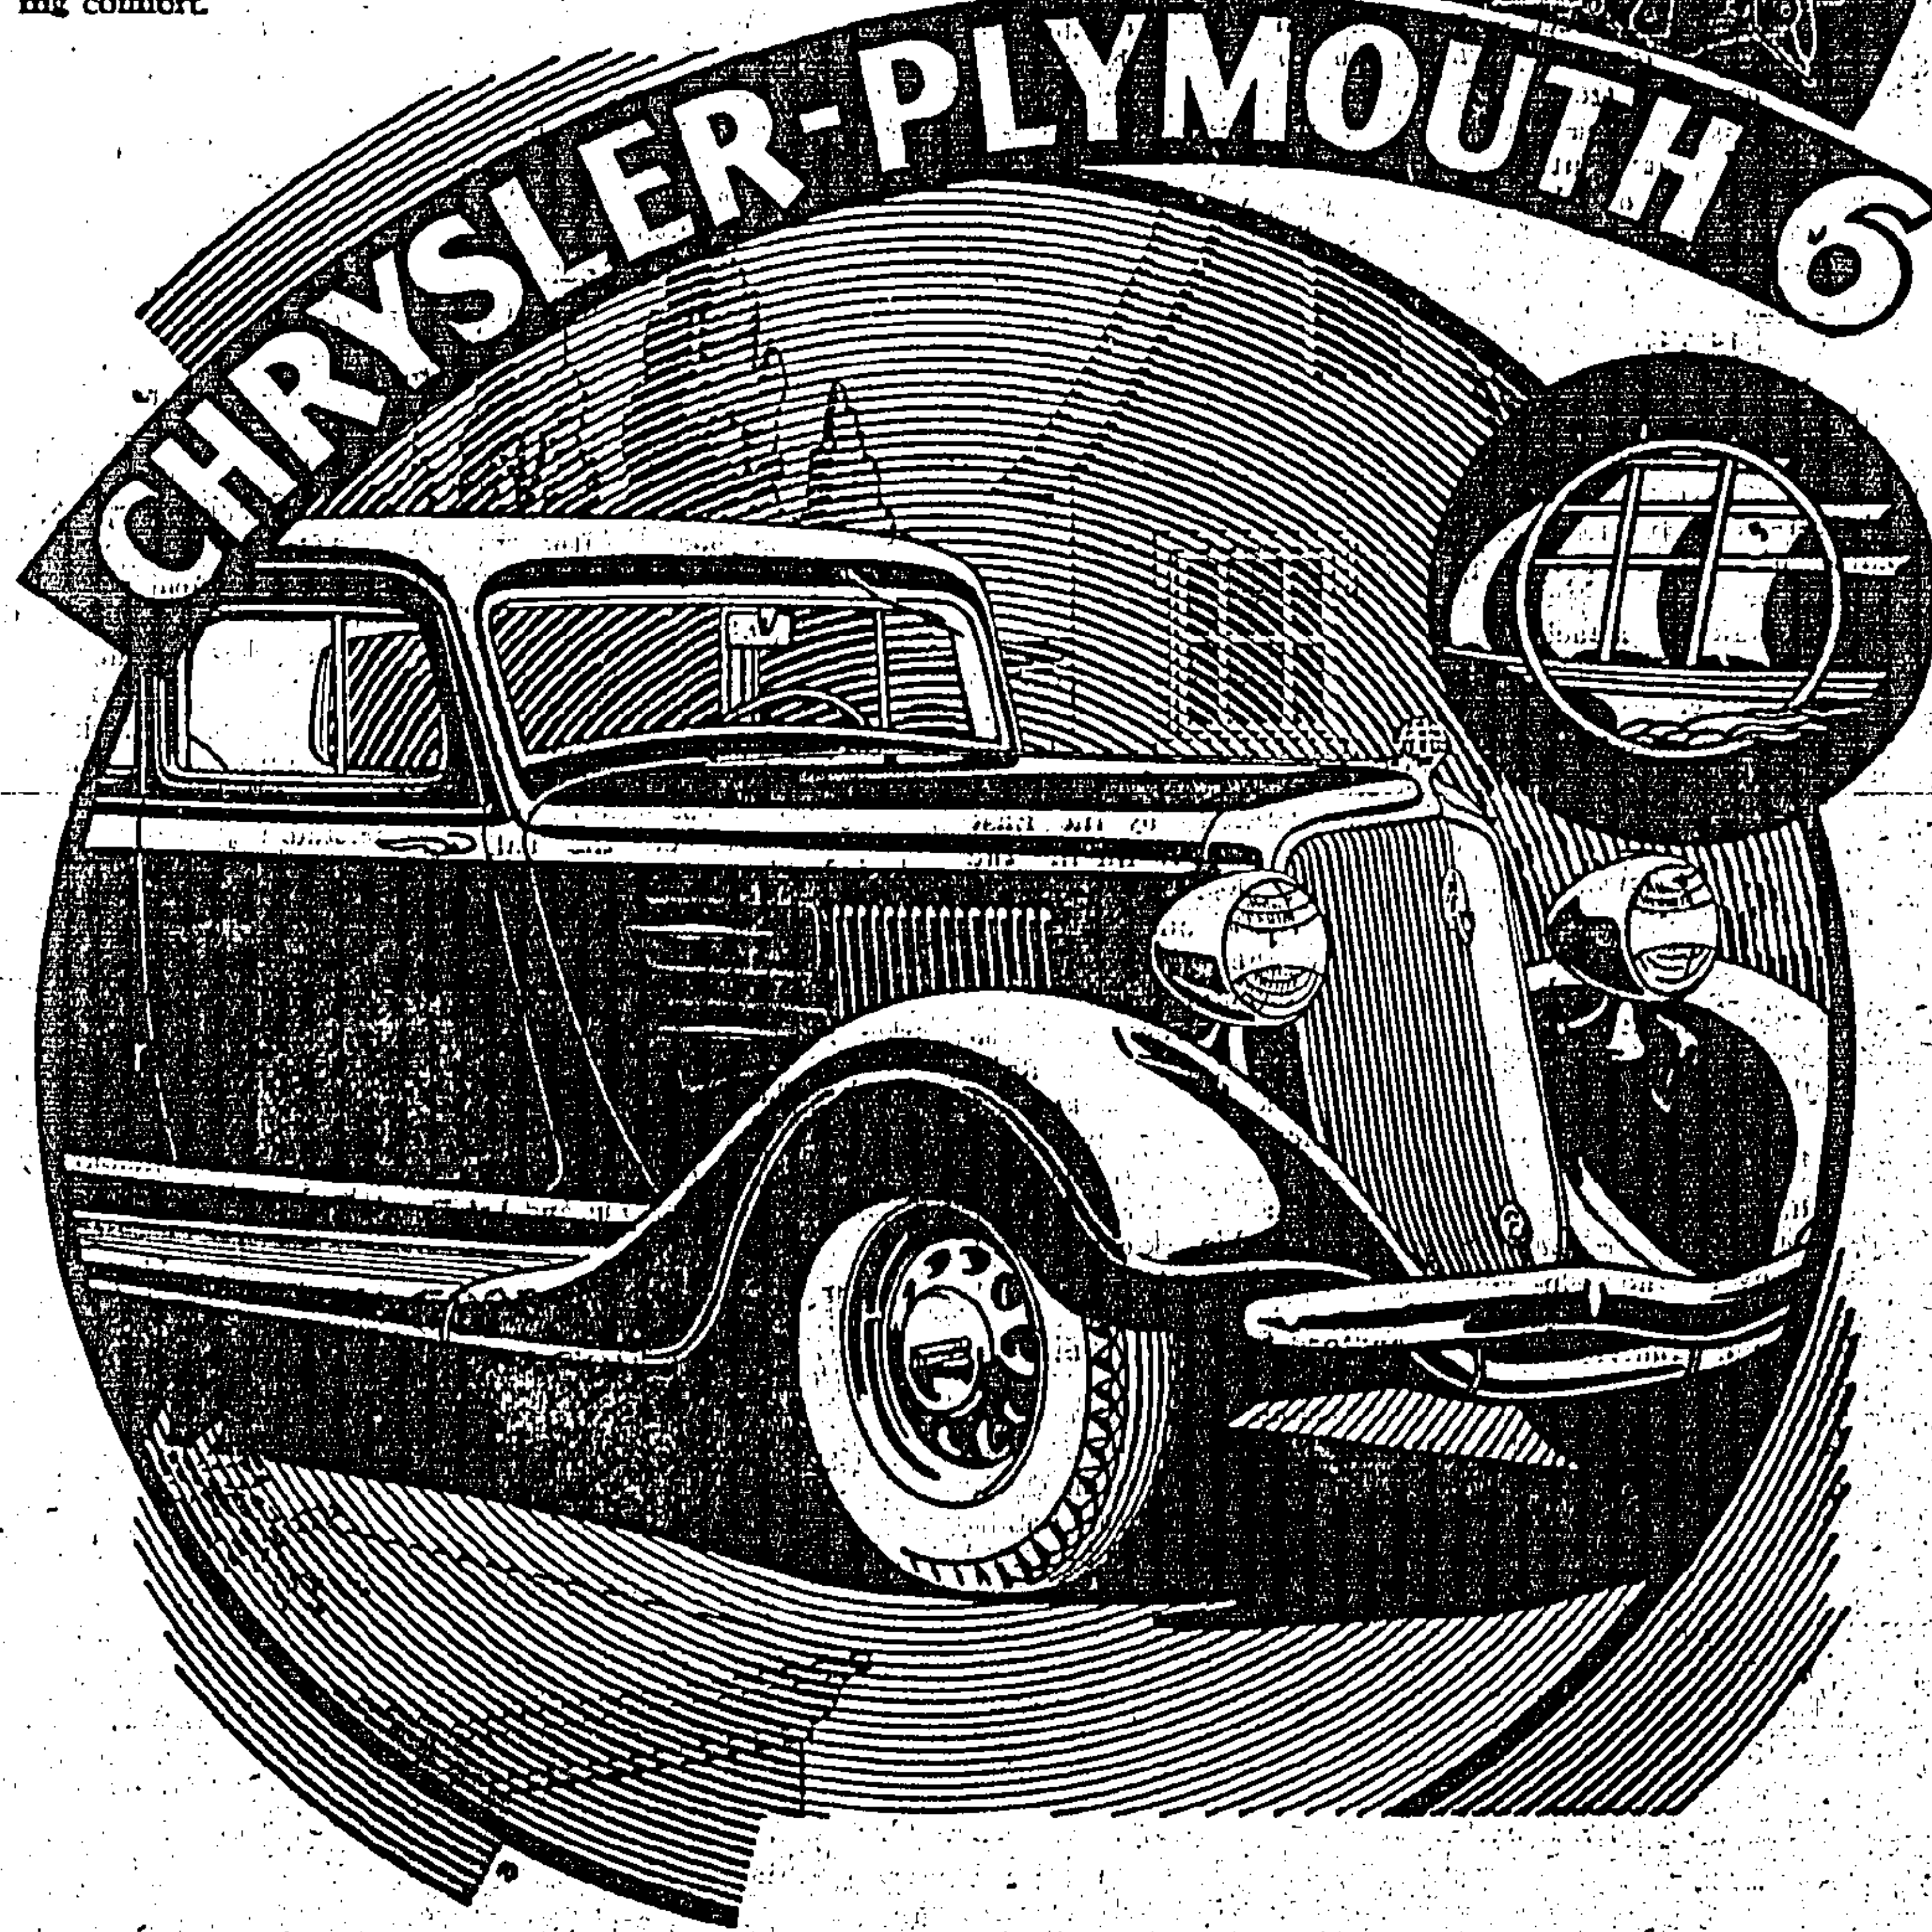

M.P.s had a good laugh in the House of Commons recently at the expense of Sir Robert Horne.

The ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer made a spirited defence of the achievements of capitalism. In replying to one of the arguments of a Socialist Front Bench orator he proceeded to illustrate his point by saying: "We all believe in the institution of marriage."

An Sir Robert Horne is a bachelor this tickled the House, and Mr. Will Thorne poked genial fun at him.

TOLLS CHARGED PER WHEEL IN FRENCH TERRITORY

A reader who has recently returned from a tour which took him through French Territory on the West Coast of India writes that road tolls in this territory are collected per wheel! He encloses a toll ticket bearing the following inscription:—

Motor Car, 4 as. per wheel
Motor Bus or Lorry, 8 as. per wheel.
All other vehicles, 2 as. per wheel.
Fortunately, the spare wheel is spared this indignity.

SIMPLE FIRE EQUIPMENT

The Smothering Of Petrol Blazes

An interesting demonstration was staged at Bell's Asbestos works at Slough recently of an easy method of dealing with a petrol fire underneath the bonnet of a car.

An asbestos blanket about a yard square is carried in a neat "quick release" container near the driver. If a fire should occur, the blanket, by pulling a small piece of tape, is quickly unfolded and thrown on the flames which are immediately extinguished. After shaking, the blanket can be folded back into its container ready for a future occasion.

This simple equipment provides a thoroughly efficient method of dealing with petrol fires, which can only be smothered. Sand, which is so often recommended, cannot be carried in a car and, in any case, if used beneath the bonnet, is liable to create havoc with the mechanical parts.

OUTPUT DOUBLE THAT OF 1933

Ford Figures For World Production

Figures on Ford world production show that the Company's output of cars, trucks and commercial vehicles for the first eight months of 1934 was practically twice that of the same period last year.

The figures are: total world production for the first eight months of 1934, 6,96,070 vehicles; for the first eight months of 1933, 3,52,405 vehicles—an increase of 3,43,665 or 97.5 per cent.

Production in every foreign country where Ford has plants so far this year has shown very substantial increases over that for the same period a year ago. In some countries production trebled. The increase in production for all countries outside the United States was 63 per cent.

JUDGE CAUSES QUERY

Relies Too Much On Driver's Discretion

During a case heard recently in an English County Court, the Judge said: "If there is a stream of traffic held up by an adverse light, and the light changes and a vehicle goes on, the following vehicle has a right to assume there is nothing which makes it unsafe to go on and he can shape his course to go on at the same speed as the first vehicle." If all motorists were to display this simple faith in the discretion of their fellow-drivers the road casualties would, indeed, mount sky-high!—"The Autocar."

STILL MORE MOTORS

There were 2,282,014 mechanically propelled vehicles registered in Britain last year, an increase of 2.83 per cent. over the previous year—"The Motor Cycle."

Common-Sense Contract Some Examples

(By Lt-Col. H. M. BEASLEY)

IN continuing my analysis of the bidding tactics expounded by Mr. Crane in his "Common Sense in Contract Bidding" I am giving some examples showing the accuracy which can be obtained if players adhere to the principles laid down.

Here are three maxims laid down for original opening bids (Maxim 8 was omitted last week):

- Original Bid (if your hand counts twelve or more points).
- Maxim 1. Always bid a major if you have five or more.
- Maxim 2. With three or more suits stopped and no five-card major suit, bid No Trump.
- Maxim 3. Without three suits stopped and no five-card major suit, bid your best minor.

Valuation Table

Honour Count—Ace counts Four, King Three, Queen Two, and Jack One. Therefore the total count of all the honours in the four suits is 40, and the average hand, which holds one-quarter of the honours in the pack, counts 10.

Distributional Count

Original Bid.—Add three for each trump over five in the suit bid.

Supporting Hand.—Add three for each of the next two trumps over three in your partner's suit if you raise him in that suit.

And, if you agree on a trump with either bid, add three for each singleton; add six for each chancellor.

This gives you the total value of your hand. You then bid as follows:

Original Bid.
Bid (pass) One Two Three Four
Hand counts 8 12 16 20 24
Helping Bid.

Raise Once Twice Three Four Five times times times times times and so on.

You will note that all the bidding points are in multiples of four.

Here is a hand illustrating how the Grand Slam is arrived at after an opening bid of two hearts. I quote from the Bridge Magazine:

NORTH:—
S—J 8 7 6 5
H—10 3
D—Q J 10 4
C—10 8

SOUTH:—
S—Q 9 2
H—7 5 4
D—A K 7 6 5 2
C—4

EAST:—
S—A K
H—K 9 8 6 2
D—
C—A K J 9 7 6

WEST:—
S—10 4 3
H—A Q J
D—9 8 8
C—Q 5 3 2

East is the dealer. The bidding according to Mr. Crane's system should be:

	S.	W.	N.
E.	No 7	3H	No
2H	No 6C	No	No
6C	No	7H	No
6H	No	7H	No

You will note that by Maxim 1 an opening bid of two hearts is obligatory. The hand contains a five-card major suit and a total point count of 18. West's hand contains three trumps and a total point count of 9—just sufficient for one raise in the original suit bid.

East now shows his strong club suit by bidding five clubs. His hand counts 27 points with clubs as trumps, made up as follows:

18 points for the honours.
3 for the extra trump in excess of five.
6 for the chicane.

He knows that, as West has given him a simple raise in hearts, West's hand counts a minimum number of 8 points; therefore the combined hands with clubs as trumps must total 35 points, sufficient to expect a small slam.

West now reveals the value of his hand with clubs as trumps and finds that it amounts to a total of 12 points (9 for the honours and 3

DESTINED TO BE A GREAT COUNTRY

Mr. John Masfield On Australia

"BEAUTIFUL MELBOURNE"

Mr. John Masfield, the Post Laureate, and Mrs. Masfield arrived recently in Colombo by the O. L. Orontes, on their way back to England from Australia after attending the Melbourne Centenary celebrations.

Mr. Masfield stated to a Ceylon Observer representative that both he and Mrs. Masfield had enjoyed their trip to the Commonwealth immensely. Australia had a number of great cities, and he thought Melbourne was among the most beautiful in the world. Since his visit he was more convinced that Australia was destined to be a great country.

The island continent, he said, was only 150 years old—taking the age of the oldest settlement—and the glorious climate of Australia, with its wonderful sunshine, has helped to lay the foundation of a great race. She would, he believed, play an important part in the future of the British Empire.

TWIN GIRLS BORN TWO DAYS APART

Not An Isolated Case

3½ AND 5 LB. BABIES

Two days after giving birth to a 3½ lb. daughter, Mrs. Leslie Daniels, of Bridge-street, Brackley, Northamptonshire, recently gave birth to a second daughter, weighing 5½ lb. Mother and babies are progressing well.

Cases have occurred previously of twins being born a few days apart, though they are not very common. In January this year a woman gave birth to a child on the Isle of Scarpia. She then went by boat to Harris and motored to Tarbert, where she later gave birth to a second child. About 48 hours and 43 miles separated the two events.

BIRD-WATCHING

From nobility to unemployed, from business men to labourers and housewives, people are watching birds because they like birds, not because it is fashionable. The women of to-day prefer to see how the king-fisher lives than to wear its feathers in their hats.

The great charm of bird-watching as the ideal recreation is that one may spend a fortune on it—as has Lord Rothschild—or nothing at all; one may watch birds at all seasons of the year, whereas the gardener and flower-lover finds most of his delights vanished during the winter.

for the one trump in excess of three). These 12 points justify him in giving a raise in the club suit and bidding a small slam.

East now bids 6 hearts to find out whether the honour composition of West's hand is in hearts and invites a grand slam either in clubs or hearts. West naturally prefers the hearts.

Here is another hand (from the same source) by which, under Maxim 2, after an opening bid of one No Trump by South, a small slam bid an diamonds is reached:

	North	South
S—A x	K Q x
H—A Q 10 x x	K x
D—A J 10 x	9 8 x x
C—x x	A Q 10 x

South is the dealer and, by Maxim 2, having a point count of 14, opens the bidding with one No Trump.

North, holding a five-card major suit and a point count of 15, has a double raise in hearts. He therefore bids three hearts.

South, holding only two hearts and knowing that the point count of the combined hands must be 26 points, bids three No Trumps.

North as he does not know anything about the club suit, and as his hand is not distributionally suitable for No Trumps, makes a tentative bid of four diamonds.

South now reveals his hand with diamonds as trumps and finds that it totals 17 points (14 for the honours and 3 for the fourth trump). He therefore bids five diamonds, and North bids the small slam.

As the combined hands total 32 points, a small slam is probable.

POPULARISING THE TELEPHONE

Unlimited Shilling
Trunk Calls

REMARKABLE SUCCESS
OF EXPERIMENT

Telephone subscribers are enthusiastic over the new system of "a shilling for three minutes' conversation with anywhere" during the evening.

Delays caused by congestion of lines during the first weeks of the cheap rates, no longer exist, and it is only in exceptional cases that the Post Office now impose a time limit on the call.

"An average of over 5,800 trunk calls is being booked from London every night," a Post Office official told a representative of The Daily Telegraph. "Occasionally there is still a slight delay on particularly busy lines, but this is being reduced every night."

"Of these 5,800 calls fully 90 per cent. are completed. About 10 per cent. are not effected owing to the absence of the wanted subscriber."

"In rare cases it is still necessary to impose a time limit on calls because of the exceptional overcrowding of some particular line, but this is a temporary expedient, and as soon as the congestion is reduced the time limit is waived."

Still Popular

The Post Office has observed with satisfaction that there is no tendency for the popularity of the shilling call to diminish as the novelty wears off. The demand has remained practically constant over the past few weeks. Calls from London to Aberdeen continue to increase. The percentage in this instance is now 600 per cent. greater than before October 1, when the shilling rates came into effect.

It is pointed out that the shilling fee covers the first three minutes of a call, and that after they have exhausted their first three minutes subscribers may go on speaking without restriction at the rate of 4d. per extra minute.

Misunderstanding has been caused by the belief that a further complete period of three minutes must be booked after the first one is over, but the Post Office states that this is not the case.

DEAN'S SACRIFICE FOR SCHOOL

3 Years' Deficits Paid
Out Of Own Pocket

St. Stephen's High School for Girls, Windsor, which is to close at the end of this term, has been kept going for three years through the generosity of the Dean of Windsor, Dr. A. V. Baillie, who is one of the Governors.

He has paid the annual deficits, amounting to hundreds of pounds, out of his own pocket. In order to meet this drain on his resources, the main portion of the Deanery, in the precincts of Windsor Castle, has been closed, and he has been living in a small wing of the premises.

"I was always keen on the continuing," Dr. Baillie told a reporter. "It is a good school, and has a great tradition. I thought it worth preserving, and still do."

The staff gave up a proportion of their salaries for some time," he added. "Everyone connected with the school has made sacrifices, but it has all proved of no avail."

BUTCHERS' MEETING SHOCKED

A Vegetarian!

There was a storm at the meeting of the Wolverhampton Master Butchers' Association which took place last month. It was revealed that one of the contractors serving the Association was a vegetarian.

The offending contractor had submitted a quotation for further supplies of his goods when one of the members, Mr. H. E. Sproson, rose and made the following pronouncement:

"He is a vegetarian. It is monstrous to think that we as butchers should continue to deal with such a man."

The Association unanimously accepted the quotation of another contractor.

1934 DECLARED ANXIOUS AND BUFFETED YEAR

LORD PRIVY SEAL PRAISES
LEAGUE ACHIEVEMENTS

London, Yesterday.

Speaking at Newcastle yesterday, Captain Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal, said that 1934 was an anxious and buffeted year, but that its closing weeks saw a definite, even startling, improvement in the international outlook. This, in the main, was due to the course of events in Geneva during the specially summoned meeting — one of most momentous in the League's history — at which the Council of the League was confronted with two problems.

Relief In U.S.

Plans were also outlined to expedite the social programme outlined by President Roosevelt in his message to Congress yesterday. Those present included Mr. George L. Harrison, Governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, the Vice-President, Mr. John N. Garner, Senators Arthur R. Robinson, of Indiana, and Key Pittman, of Nevada, and Representative "Joe" Byrnes, Democrat representative from Tennessee. — Reuter.

ADDRESS BY PRESIDENT SURPRISES

President Roosevelt's address has created some surprise, owing to the scope of the proposals and to the fact that the cost of the plans has yet not been estimated. The Democrats wholeheartedly praise the recommendations of their leader, Senator Joseph P. Robinson of Arkansas, declaring that the principles announced in the legislation proposed are sound. The Republicans are more cautious; their leader Senator Charles A. McNary being of the opinion that the President's message is interesting and forward-looking. Senators William E. Borah and Key Pittman have both voiced their approval of the recommendation for the elimination of duties. The address has not affected the stock markets. — Reuter.
